COMMISSIONER OF INTERNAL REVENUE
Washington, DC 20224

December 11, 1979

The Honorable G. William Miller
Secretary of the Treasury
Washington, DC 20220

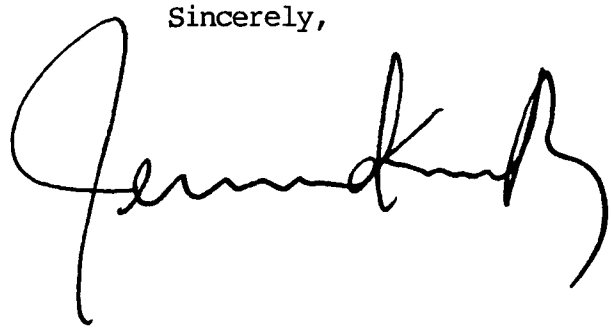

Dear Mr. Secretary:

I am transmitting the Supplemental Report, Statistics of Income--1968 and 1972, International Income and Taxes, U.S. Corporations and their Controlled Foreign Corporations. The statistics in the report are estimates derived from samples of unaudited corporation income tax returns for two Income Years, 1968 (accounting periods ended July 1968 through June 1969) and 1972 (periods ended July 1972 through June 1973). The major emphasis of these statistics is the classification of the earnings, taxes, and transactions of foreign subsidiaries of U.S. corporations by country and industry.

The report complements the recently published report on the foreign tax credit claimed on corporation income tax returns. Information was provided by country for 1968 and 1972 on the foreign income and taxes of U.S. corporations resulting from their operations abroad conducted through subsidiaries as well as branches. A previous report on subsidiaries that were Controlled Foreign Corporations covered 1965 and 1966.

With kind regards,

Sincerely,

Introduction

U.S. corporations conduct business abroad through foreign branches and through subsidiary corporations incorporated in foreign countries. This report, which is a part of the series on international income and taxes and is a supplement to the annual report Statistics of Income--Corporation Income Tax Returns, deals with those foreign subsidiaries owned directly or indirectly by U.S. corporations and with the U.S. parent corporations. The data shown represent statistical estimates derived from the stratified samples of unaudited corporation income tax returns selected for Statistics of Income for the Income Years 1968 and 1972. These years were defined to include corporation accounting periods ended (1) July 1968 through June 1969 and (2) July 1972 through June 1973, respectively.

In this supplemental report, detailed statistics are presented on the operations of foreign subsidiaries as reported on Form 2952, Information Return with Respect to Controlled Foreign Corporations. The major features are the data on the geographic location of the operations and the principal business activity of the foreign subsidiaries. In addition, data are presented for the first time in Statistics of Income on the transactions reported between Controlled Foreign Corporations and their U.S. parent corporations and other related entities.

Foreign branch profits along with income received from foreign subsidiaries were reported as part of "taxable income from foreign sources" on the foreign tax credit computation schedules filed by U.S. corporations claiming a foreign tax credit. Data on the foreign operations of these U.S. corporations for 1968, 1969, 1970, and 1972 are included in a companion report, Supplemental Report, Statistics of Income, 1968-1972, International Income and Taxes, Foreign Tax Credit Claimed on Corporation Income Tax Returns.

The regular Statistics of Income--Corporation Income Tax Returns presented five items of data reported on the basic corporation income tax return forms which related to the foreign activities of U.S. corporations. They were: (1) foreign tax credit claimed, (2) foreign dividends received, (3) foreign dividend income resulting from foreign taxes deemed paid ("foreign dividend gross-up"), (4) includable income of Controlled Foreign Corporations, and (5) the Western Hemisphere Trade Corporation deduction. Each of these is also presented in this report in order to show the characteristics of the parents of Controlled Foreign Corporations.

The following classifications are used for the statistics:

U.S. corporations--
- From the corporation income tax return:
  - Business activity
  - Size of total assets
  - Accounting period

Controlled Foreign Corporations--
- From the Form 2952:
  - Business activity
  - Size of total assets

  - Direct and indirect ownership
  - Type of related person

All of the data shown in this report are prior to audit, and, consequently, do not reflect any reallocation of income or deductions arising out of business transactions between U.S. corporations and their foreign subsidiaries. The Internal Revenue Service was authorized by the provisions of Code section 482 to make these reallocations in order to reflect more closely the charges that would have been made if the companies had been unrelated and dealing with each other at "arm's length." The most common reallocations made under section 482 involved intercompany pricing of goods sold by one company to a related company, intercompany service charges, and interest charges on the intercompany loan of funds. To the extent that there were deviations from the "arm's-length" relationship caused by the undervaluation of sales to and financial services provided for Controlled Foreign Corporations, the costs of goods, services, intangibles, and loans paid for or by foreign corporations would be understated and, correspondingly, their earnings and profits would be overstated.

A study on this subject was made by the Treasury Department and the Service based on revenue agents' reports completed in 1968 or 1969. 1/ The study included 871 cases in which a revenue agent considered or made a reallocation of income or deductions between the U.S. companies and their foreign subsidiaries. Reallocations were actually made in slightly more than one-half of the cases and in these instances the foreign subsidiaries' profits were overstated and the adjustment resulted in a shifting of income from the foreign subsidiary to the U.S. parent corporation. More than one-half of the cases in which adjustments were made involved U.S. corporations with total assets of $50 million or more.

FILING REQUIREMENTS FOR CONTROLLED FOREIGN CORPORATIONS

For purposes of filing Form 2952 a U.S. person controlled a first-tier foreign corporation if it owned more than 50 percent of the voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote or more than 50 percent of the total value of all shares of stock of the foreign corporation. A U.S. person was deemed to control a second- or lower-tier foreign corporation if it controlled a first-tier foreign corporation which, in turn, owned more than 50 percent of the voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote or more than 50 percent of the total value of all shares of stock of a second-tier foreign corporation, which, in turn, owned more than 50 percent of the stock of a third-tier foreign corporation, and so forth down through the chain of control. Because the U.S. person was deemed to control each of these lower-tier foreign corporations, it was required to file a Form 2952 for each of them.

More specifically, any U.S. "person" (corporation, individual, partnership, estate or trust) which controlled, directly or indirectly, (through the percentages of stock ownership described above), a foreign corporation for an uninterrupted period of 30 days during the foreign corporation's annual accounting period was required to file a Form 2952 for that corporation. The information supplied on the Form 2952 was required for the annual accounting period of each Controlled Foreign Corporation that ended with or within the taxable year of the U.S. person filing the return. U.S. persons required to file Form 2952 for a Controlled Foreign Corporation that failed to do so were liable to penalty through loss of some or all of the foreign tax credit for the taxes paid by the foreign corporations. In addition, criminal penalties were provided for failure to file, even when there were no foreign taxes eligible for the foreign tax credit.

Chart 1 shows the accounting periods of the U.S. and foreign corporations included in the statistics presented in this report. Code section 441 required that returns be filed for the annual accounting period customarily used by the corporation in keeping its books and that, in general, the accounting period close at the end of the month. Thus, the earliest 12-month accounting period of a U.S. corporation covered in the 1968 tables extended from the beginning of August 1967 through the end of July 1968 and the last such accounting period, from the beginning of July 1968 through the end of June 1969. Similarly, for U.S. corporations covered in the 1972 tables the first-included 12-month accounting period was from the beginning of August 1971 through the end of July 1972 and the last-included accounting period was from the beginning of July 1972 through the end of June 1973.

In addition to returns with accounting periods that spanned 12 months, the tables included returns with accounting periods of shorter duration (see "Accounting Periods" in the Explanation of Terms).

Because Forms 2952 were filed for accounting periods of Controlled Foreign Corporations ending with or within the accounting period of the U.S. parent corporation, the accounting periods of Controlled Foreign Corporations included in the 1968 tables ranged from September 1966 (the earliest beginning date) through June 1969 (the last ending date). Likewise, in the 1972 tables the accounting periods of Controlled Foreign Corporations covered a span of time from September 1970 through June 1973.

Despite the wide time span shown in chart 1, table 30, which presents data classified by the accounting periods of both the U.S. and foreign corporations for 1972 only, shows the importance of corporations reporting for a calendar-year accounting period. Although only about one-half of all U.S. corporations had calendar-year accounting periods ended December 1972, these corporations accounted for (1) almost 85 percent of the total net income (less deficit) reported by all U.S. corporations with Controlled Foreign Corporations, (2) almost 68 percent of the Controlled Foreign Corporations, and (3) more than 86 percent of the total pre-tax current earnings and profits (less deficit) of Controlled Foreign Corporations. In regard to Controlled Foreign Corporations, more than 53 percent of them had calendar-year accounting periods and they reported more than 71 percent of the total pre-tax current earnings and profits (less deficit).

HISTORICAL SUMMARY, 1962-1972

Table A shows the sharp growth during the 1962-1972 period in the operations of U.S. corporations abroad through foreign subsidiary corporations in which they owned more than 50 percent of the stock, either directly or indirectly. During this period the number of Controlled Foreign Corporations increased almost two and one-half times and their earnings increased almost four times.

Of the $5.2 billion in distributions made by Controlled Foreign Corporations in 1972, almost $4 billion was out of the current year's earnings (see table 23 for the different types of distributions). Comparable amounts for 1968 were $2.5 billion and $2.0 billion, respectively. The distributions were made to the U.S. parent corporation as well as to other shareholders, both U.S. and foreign.

Table A also shows that the amount distributed as a dividend to U.S. parent corporations in 1972 totaled $3.2 billion. This was an increase of almost three times over 1962. Dividends for 1968 amounted to $1.4 billion. In contrast to the figures given above for distributions out of the current year's earnings, the dividend figures do not include amounts

CHARACTERISTICS OF U.S. PARENT CORPORATIONS AND THEIR CONTROLLED FOREIGN CORPORATIONS

Table B shows that for both 1968 and 1972 controlling interest in foreign corporations was reported by relatively few U.S. corporations, but those that did indicate a controlling interest accounted for a substantial proportion of the total assets, net income, and taxes reported on all U.S. corporation income tax returns. For both 1968 and 1972, dividends paid by Controlled Foreign Corporations to their U.S. parent corporations accounted for about 70 percent of both the total foreign dividends received by the U.S. parent corporations and the foreign dividends reported as being received by all U.S. corporations. It should be noted that the foreign dividends reported as having been received also included dividends paid by Controlled Foreign Corporations to noncontrolling U.S. shareholder corporations.

The effect on the data of consolidated returns filed by U.S. parent corporations should be noted. Thus, the total assets shown in table B include not only the assets of the controlling U.S. corporations, but also the assets of those U.S. corporations with less than a controlling interest or with no interest whatsoever in Controlled Foreign Corporations, but which were included in the same consolidated return as an affiliated group member that controlled one or more foreign corporations. Although the total assets figure is an overstatement of the total assets of U.S. corporations controlling foreign corporations, the number of returns shown is an understatement of the number of controlling U.S. corporations because more than one controlling U.S. corporation could be included in the same consolidated return.

Chart 2 shows the relationship between the size of U.S. parent corporations (as evidenced by total assets) and the number of Controlled Foreign Corporations per U.S. corporation return. U.S. corporations with total assets of $250 million or more accounted for 51 percent of all Controlled Foreign Corporations in 1968 and 56 percent in 1972, and these foreign corporations, in turn, accounted for 77 percent of the pre-tax current earnings and profits (less deficit) of all Controlled Foreign Corporations in 1968 and almost 86 percent in 1972.

The predominance of the activities of directly-owned Controlled Foreign Corporations is shown by the data in table C. A comparison of the data for 1968 and 1972 shows that there was an increase in direct ownership of foreign corporations and a corresponding decrease in indirect ownership.

Chart 2. Number of U.S. parent corporation returns and Controlled Foreign Corporations, by size of total assets of U.S. corporation, 1968 and 1972

INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY OF U.S. CORPORATIONS AND THEIR CONTROLLED FOREIGN CORPORATIONS

Tables 2 and 16 present data for 1968 and 1972, respectively, classified by the industry of the U.S. corporation. However, the U.S. corporation's diverse domestic and foreign industrial activities are not evident in these statistics. This is because returns were classified in the industry which accounted for the largest portion of total receipts, even though the return might have been for a corporation engaged in many business activities or might have been for an affiliated group of corporations which was engaged in different business activities and which were included in the same consolidated return.

Because foreign subsidiary corporations (with the exception of certain wholly-owned subsidiaries incorporated in Canada and Mexico) could not be included in consolidated returns filed by their U.S. parent corporations, data were available on the principal business activity of each of these foreign corporations. Consequently, classification of the Controlled Foreign Corporations by their own industrial activity provides an indication of the diverse foreign business activies being conducted by U.S. corporations through foreign subsidiaries, although, even here, a foreign corporation could also have had business activities other than the principal one in which it was classified. For the larger foreign corporations, this industrial diversification may have been more pronounced, as it was in the case of the larger U.S. corporations.

Tables 6 and 20 present 1968 and 1972 data on Controlled Foreign Corporations classified by the industrial activity of both the foreign corporation and the U.S. parent corporation. Chart 3 shows the total assets of Controlled Foreign Corporations distributed separately by the industrial division of the U.S. parent corporation and by the industrial division of the Controlled Foreign Corporation. The major share of the total assets of Controlled Foreign Corporations belonged to those controlled by U.S. corporations primarily engaged in manufacturing. While a large portion of these assets were likewise in manufacturing when classified by the industry of the Controlled Foreign Corporation, there was considerably more diversity in the industrial activity of foreign corporations than of the U.S. parent corporations.

PROFITS AND TAXES OF FOREIGN CORPORATIONS BY COUNTRY

In total, Controlled Foreign Corporations were incorporated in more than 100 countries. However, a small number of these countries accounted for the major share of the activity of foreign subsidiaries of U.S. corporations. As shown in chart 4, firms incorporated in three countries, Canada, United Kingdom, and West Germany, accounted for approximately one-half of the net earnings of all foreign corporations for both 1968 and 1972.

Table D presents data for 1968 and 1972 on ratios of taxes to (pre-tax) earnings, expressed as percentages, for Controlled Foreign Corporations with pre-tax current earnings and profits by geographic area and selected country of incorporation. (Foreign corporations with deficits in current earnings and profits are excluded from this table.) The ratios of taxes to earnings shown in table D are not necessarily representative of the foreign statutory rates. Among the reasons are: (1) current earnings and profits was generally not the same as whatever taxable income base was used by foreign countries under their own tax laws; (2) taxes shown may include income taxes imposed at the subnational level in addition to those imposed by the national government; (3) taxes shown also include income taxes imposed by other countries in which the foreign corporation operated in addition to the taxes imposed (possibly net of a credit for the other countries' taxes, or based only on income earned in that country) by the country of incorporation (which is the basis for the country statistics shown in table D); and (4) taxes imposed may have resulted from negotiation by a foreign government with a U.S. multinational parent corporation or have been set by tax treaties between the U.S. and the foreign government. Nevertheless, the ratios of taxes to earnings shown in table D are the closest approximations of the relative tax burdens in the various foreign countries that could be derived from data reported on Form 2952. In addition, variations between the ratios of taxes to earnings shown for 1968 and 1972 could also have been due, in part, to changes in the particular country's tax laws.

Of the countries shown in table D, the four with the lowest ratios of taxes to earnings for both 1968 and 1972 were Bermuda, Liberia, Panama, and Switzerland. All four of these countries were known as foreign "tax havens." U.S. corporations organized subsidiaries in these and certain other countries for the purpose of conducting business not only there, but also outside of these countries, in order to take advantage of either the very low tax rates or, in some instances, the complete exemption from income taxation in the tax haven countries. The above four countries were among those with the world's lowest statutory tax rates for the two years concerned.

Table 25, which contains a cross-classification of data by industry and country of the Controlled Foreign Corporation for 1972, shows that in the case of Liberia, the 133 foreign corporations engaged in water transportation earned $180 million, but paid only $3 million in foreign income taxes. (Table 11 which presents data classified by industry and country for 1968 shows a similar situation for that year.) These subsidiaries of U.S. corporations were incorporated in Liberia in order to take advantage of the Liberian tax laws which exempted from taxation the earnings of shipowners registered in that country, but not exclusively engaged in Liberian coastal trade. These foreign corporations owned and operated ships flying the Liberian flag and their principal place of business was the "high seas." A further indication of this type of activity can be found in the data in table 27, which show that for 1972 the 142 foreign corporations which reported their principal place of business as the "high seas" earned $430 million, yet paid only $7 million in taxes. (Similar data are not available for 1968 because when a Form 2952 showed high-seas operations as the foreign corporation's principal place of business, the data were included in the statistics for "Country not stated.")

While table D shows a ratio of taxes to earnings of 11 percent for 1968 for the Bahamas, another tax haven country, it shows a ratio of 41 percent for 1972. This was due to the fact that virtually all of the foreign income taxes that were reported for the Bahamas for 1972 were paid by foreign corporations whose principal place of business was outside that country. As can be seen from table 27, in which the data are classified by the foreign corporation's principal place of business, the ratio of taxes to earnings was only 5 percent for those foreign corporations whose principal place of business was in the Bahamas. Consequently, it should be noted that for the Bahamas, as well as for other countries where a large proportion of the activities of companies incorporated there took place in other countries, the data in table D do not provide good measures of the level of taxes imposed by the country of incorporation.

Other tax haven countries included the Netherlands Antilles, Liechtenstein, and Luxembourg. Using the data in tables 8 and 23, for 1968 and 1972, respectively, the ratios of taxes to earnings for these countries ranged from 1 to 15 percent.

TRANSACTIONS OF CONTROLLED FOREIGN CORPORATIONS

The 1968 tables represent the first time that detailed data on the transactions of Controlled Foreign Corporations with their U.S. parent corporations (and other related persons) are included in Statistics of Income. Previously, only the dividends paid to the U.S. parent corporation were tabulated.

The types of related persons for which data on transactions were reported on Form 2952 were (1) the U.S. (parent) corporation filing the Form 2952 (with which the majority of transactions were conducted), (2) any other corporations controlled by the U.S. corporation filing the Form 2952, whether U.S. or foreign (the two could not be distinguished on the Form), (3) 10-percent-or-more U.S. shareholders of the Controlled Foreign Corporation other than the controlling U.S. corporation, and (4) 10-percent-or-more U.S. shareholders of the U.S. corporation filing the Form 2952. Tables 8 for 1968 and 23 for 1972 present data for the different types of transactions of Controlled Foreign Corporations with each of the categories of related persons.

Table E shows the transactions of Controlled Foreign Corporations after exclusion of the receipts and payments between the Controlled Foreign Corporation and any other corporation controlled by the U.S. corporation filing the Form 2952. The transactions with these other corporations involved substantial amounts, but were excluded from table E in order to limit the transactions shown to those between Controlled Foreign Corporations and U.S. entities only. However, a comparison of the data in tables 8 and 23 for 1968 and 1972, respectively, shows a shift away from transactions with the U.S. parent corporation to transactions with other subsidiaries (U.S. or foreign) of the U.S. parent.

[1]The return counts in column 1 and total assets in column 2 pertain to the total activity of the U.S. parent corporation in a particular area, subarea or country. Since most U.S. corporations have Controlled Foreign Corporations incorporated in more than one country, the data in these columns are not additive.

[2]Includes "not allocable" which is not shown separately.

[3]Less than $500 per return.

[4]Other than controlling U.S. corporation.

Note: See text for explanatory statements, including Geographic classification under "Explanation of Terms" and for "Description of the Sample and Limitations of the Data." Detail may not add to totals because of rounding.

[1]The return counts in column 1 pertain to the total activity of the U.S. parent corporation in a particular area, subarea or country. Since most U.S. Corporations have Controlled Foreign Corporations incorporated in more than one country, the data in this column are not additive.

[*]Less than $500 per return.

NOTE: See text for explanatory statements, including Geographic classification under "Explanation of Terms" and for "Description of the Sample and Limitations of the Data." Detail may not add to totals because of rounding.

[1]The return counts in column 1 pertain to the total activity of the U. S. parent corporation in a particular industrial division or industry. Since most U. S. corporations have Controlled Foreign Corporations engaged in more than one industry, the data in this column are not additive.

[2]Less than $500 per return.

NOTE: See text for explanatory statements and for "Description of the Sample and Limitations of the Data." Detail may not add to totals because of rounding.

[1]The return counts in column 1 pertain to the total activity of the U.S. parent corporation in a particular area, subarea or country. Since most U.S. corporations have Controlled Foreign Corporations incorporated in more than one country, the data in this column are not additive.

[2]Includes "Not allocable" which is not shown separately.

[3]Less than $500 per return.

[4]Other than controlling U.S. corporation.

NOTE: See text for explanatory statements, including Geographic classification under "Explanation of Terms" and for "Description of the Sample and Limitations of the Data." Detail may not add to totals because of rounding.

[1]The return counts in column 1 pertain to the total activity of the U.S. parent corporation in a particular area, subarea or country. Since most U.S. corporations have Controlled Foreign Corporations incorporated in more than one country, the data in this column are not additive.

*Less than $500 per return.

NOTE: See text for explanatory statements, including Geographic classification under "Explanation of Terms" and for "Description of the Sample and Limitations of the Data." Detail may not add to totals because of rounding.

[1]The return counts in column 1 pertain to the total activity of the U.S. parent corporation in a particular industrial division or industry. Since most U.S. corporations have Controlled Foreign Corporations engaged in more than one industry, the data in this column are not additive.

[2]Less than $500 per return.

NOTE: See text for explanatory statements, including Geographic classification under "Explanation of Terms" and for "Description of the Sample and Limitations of the Data." Detail may not add to totals because of rounding.

[1]The return counts in column 1 pertain to the total activity of the U.S. parent corporation in a particular area, subarea or country. Since most U.S. corporations have Controlled Foreign Corporations incorporated in more than one country, the data in this column are not additive.

[2]Less than $500 per return.

NOTE: See text for explanatory statements, including Geographic classification under "Explanation of Terms" and for "Description of the Sample and Limitations of the Data." Detail may not add to totals because of rounding.

[1]The return counts in column 1 pertain to the total activity of the U. S. parent corporation in a particular area, subarea or country. Since most U. S. corporations have Controlled Foreign Corporations incorporated in more than one country, the data in this column are not additive.

NOTE: See text for explanatory statements, including Geographic classification under "Explanation of Terms" and for "Description of the Sample and Limitations of the Data." Detail may not add to totals because of rounding.

[1]The return counts in column 1 pertain to the total activity of the U.S. parent corporation in a particular industrial division or industry. Since most U.S. corporations have Controlled Foreign Corporations engaged in more than one industry, the data in this column are not additive.

NOTE: See text for explanatory statements and for "Description of the Sample and Limitations of the Data." Detail may not add to totals because of rounding.

[1]The return counts in column 1 pertain to the total activity of the U.S. parent corporation in a particular area, subarea or country. Since most U.S. corporations have Controlled Foreign Corporations incorporated in more than one country, the data in this column are not additive.

[2]Less than $500 per return.

NOTE: See text for explanatory statements, including Geographic classification under "Explanation of Terms" and for "Description of the Sample and Limitations of the Data." Detail may not add to totals because of rounding.

Section 2 Explanation of Terms

The following explanations include definitions and limitations of data items and of classifications used, as well as descriptions of adjustments made in processing the statistics shown in this report. These explanations are designed as an aid in interpreting the statistical content of this report and should not be construed as interpretations of the Internal Revenue Code or related regulations, procedures, or policies. Code sections cited are those in effect during the period 1968-1972.

Accounting Periods

The accounting periods of both U.S. corporations and Controlled Foreign Corporations" are discussed under "Filing Requirements for Controlled Foreign Corporations" in Section 1. Returns with accounting periods that spanned less than 12 months are referred to as part-year returns and were filed, for the most part, by continuing corporations changing their accounting periods, new corporations in existence less than 12 months, merging corporations, and liquidating corporations.

Active Corporations

Active U.S. corporation returns were those showing any income or deduction items. They comprised the vast majority of the returns filed and were the basis for all financial statistics presented in this report for U.S. corporations.

In contrast, the Forms 2952 filed for both active and inactive Controlled Foreign Corporations were included in the statistics (see "Inactive Corporations"). In general, an active Controlled Foreign Corporation was one with current earnings and profits or a deficit in current earnings and profits for the year. Also included were foreign corporations without earnings and profits (or a deficit in earnings and profits) but which paid income taxes or which had at least one transaction reported indicating business activity in contrast to a transaction involving only passive investment activity. Transactions of Controlled Foreign Corporations regarded as indicative of business activity for the current year were all those except dividends paid and amounts borrowed or loaned.

Amounts Borrowed (or Loaned) by Controlled Foreign Corporations

These transactions represented intercompany loan of funds between the Controlled Foreign Corporation and its U.S. parent corporation or the three other categories of related persons shown on Form 2952 (see "Related Persons of Controlled Foreign Corporations").

These loan transactions do not include indebtedness shown in the open book account representing receivables or payables arising in the ordinary course of trade or business of the corporation. The repayment of loans was often reflected in a reduction in the transaction for amounts borrowed (and led to possible negative results).

Business Receipts of Controlled Foreign Corporations

Business receipts were, in general, gross receipts or gross sales less returns and allowances reported on the income statements required to be filed by Controlled Foreign Corporations with their Form 2952. This amount was sometimes identified in the income statement as gross revenues from sales or operations, net sales, or gross operating revenue, without further explanation. However, whatever the term, the amount used for the statistics related to income before the deduction of costs of goods sold and before the deduction of operating expenses. Nevertheless, there were some instances where only gross profit was reported and business receipts could not be obtained because the cost of goods sold was not reported. In these cases, gross profit was used for the statistics in place of business receipts.

In the finance, insurance, and real estate division, business receipts was generally the total income or receipts of the Controlled Foreign Corporation and may have been shown on the income statement as royalty, rental, commission, investment, or interest income or as insurance premiums.

Because the figure shown in the income statement was generally accepted as reported (since the income statement as a whole was not abstracted for the statistics), the definition of and the data shown are not completely comparable with U.S. business receipts.

Business Receipts of U.S. Corporations

Business receipts were, in general, the gross operating receipts of the corporation reduced by the cost of returned goods and allowances.

Business receipts included rents reported as a principal business income by real estate operators and by certain types of manufacturing, public utility, and service corporations. The latter corporations included manufacturers that frequently rented products rather than sold them, such as automatic data processing equipment; lessors of public utility facilities such as docks, warehouses, and pipelines; and companies engaged in rental services, such as the rental of automobiles or clothing.

Some corporations treated sales taxes and excise and related taxes which were included in the sales price of their products as part of their gross receipts from sales; others reported their receipts after adjustment for these taxes. When treated as receipts, sales taxes and excise and related taxes were deducted on the tax return as part of the cost of sales and operations or were included in the separately itemized deduction for taxes paid. In any case, the receipts as reported by the taxpayer were included in the statistics (see also, "Cost of Sales and Operations").

In the finance, insurance, and real estate division, business receipts included such banking items as fees, commissions, trust department earnings, exchange collections, discounts, and service charges, when identified in schedules attached to the return. Business receipts also included interest which was not separately identified. (Interest, the principal operating income of banking and savings institutions, is shown separately in the statistics and is, therefore, excluded from business receipts.) Special statistical treatment was required for the few banking institutions which traded certain securities

"on their own account" and which reported the purchase and sale of the securities as part of cost of sales and operations and business receipts, respectively. For the statistics, the amount paid by the banking institutions for these securities was excluded from the cost of sales and operations and a corresponding amount was excluded from business receipts.

Also in the finance, insurance, and real estate division, premium income of most insurance companies was also included in business receipts. However, certain mutual insurance companies with total receipts of less than $500,000 were not required to report premium income. Therefore, total business receipts for insurance carriers are slightly understated.

Generally, in the finance, insurance, and real estate division, income from investments, when identified in schedules attached to the return, was treated as investment income and thereby excluded from business receipts. Rent or cooperative apartment assessments reported by real estate operators, however, were accepted as business receipts.

Business receipts reported by stock and commodity brokers, dealers, and exchanges, and by real estate subdividers, developers, and operative builders, required special statistical treatment. For these operations, net profit or loss from sales of stock or real estate, when identifiable, was excluded from business receipts. If the corporation reported both business receipts and cost of sales and operations without identifying the source, and the cost of sales was 50 percent or more of the business receipts, the items were considered to include stock or real estate transactions and only the net gain or loss was used for the statistics. Otherwise, business receipts for these companies were used as reported and included commissions and service fees.

In addition to the income types described above which were uniquely treated by law, by the tax return, or for the statistics, there were certain other kinds of income from sales and operations that are not reflected in business receipts. In general, this income was included as part of the much broader category, sales of property used in trade or business.

For Domestic International Sales Corporations (DISC's), business receipts included only "qualified" export receipts, i.e., gross receipts from sales of export property, leasing of export property, services related and subsidiary to a qualified export sale or lease, engineering and architectural services, and export management services. In other words, "qualified" receipts were those which were considered to be export related and as such were the only receipts included in the statistics for business receipts. Receipts not considered to be export related (i.e. "nonqualified" receipts) were excluded from business receipts.

Commissions Received (or Paid) by Controlled Foreign Corporations

Commissions received or paid were reported on Form 2952 as a transaction with four different categories of related persons (see "Related Persons of Controlled Foreign Corporations"). They were the income or costs relating to services performed in connection with sales, purchases, collections, marketing, or other types of business transactions where the foreign corporation acted as an agent of another affiliate, usually the U.S. parent or subsidiary of the U.S. parent, or the affiliate acted as the agent of the foreign corporation.

The receiver of commissions did not obtain title to the goods being sold, but usually received a percentage of the sales price on executing the service contracted to be performed. Commissions for services were usually related to a transaction which involved merchandise and involved either the Controlled Foreign Corporation or its affiliate as the agent which received the commissions.

In some instances, license fees paid for the distribution rights to the sale of certain merchandise were reported as "Commissions paid."

Compensation Received (or Paid) for Certain Services by Controlled Foreign Corporations

Compensation received or paid was reported on Form 2952 as a transaction with four different categories of related persons (see "Related Persons of Controlled Foreign Corporations").

Compensation received was the amount paid by a U.S. parent or its subsidiary (U.S. or foreign) for the flow of technological services from the foreign subsidiary. Compensation paid was the amount received for the reverse flow. The technological services included managerial, engineering, construction, scientific, marketing, advertising, and specialized business services.

Consolidated Returns

Consolidated returns were income tax returns which contained the combined financial data of two or more U.S. corporations meeting the following requirements: (1) a common parent corporation owned at least 80 percent of the voting power of all classes of stock and at least 80 percent of each class of nonvoting stock (except stock which was limited and preferred as to dividends) of at least one member of the group, and (2) these same proportions of stock of each other member of the group were owned within the group. With the exception of certain wholly-owned subsidiaries incorporated in Canada and Mexico, foreign subsidiaries could not be included in the U.S. corporation's consolidated return.

The filing of a consolidated return for a parent corporation and its subsidiaries constituted an election of group reporting, which, with certain exceptions, had to be followed in subsequent years. The consolidated filing privilege could be granted to all affiliated U.S. corporations connected through stock ownership with a common parent corporation except: (1) regulated investment companies, (2) real estate investment trusts, (3) corporations deriving a large percentage of their gross income from sources within a U.S. possession (including Puerto Rico), (4) corporations designated tax-exempt under Code section 501, (5) China Trade Act corporations, and (6) beginning with 1972, Domestic International Sales Corporations (DISC's). Affiliated insurance companies were allowed to file a consolidated return if they were taxable under the same provisions of the Code; however, noninsurance companies with which they also may have been affiliated could not be included in the same return.

A consolidated return, filed by the common parent company, was treated as a unit, each statistical classification being determined on the basis of the combined data of the affiliated group. Therefore, filing changes to or from a consolidated return basis affect comparability of the statistics between 1968 and 1972.

Constructive Taxable Income From Related Foreign Corporations

This represented the sum of (1) "Includable Income of Controlled Foreign Corporations," and (2) "Foreign Dividend Income Resulting from Foreign Taxes Deemed Paid," which was called the "Foreign dividend gross-up" in Schedule C - "Dividends" of the U.S. corporation's income tax return. Each of these items is discussed under separate headings in this section.

Controlled Foreign Corporations

For purposes of the statistics in this report, a Controlled Foreign Corporation was any foreign corporation for which a Form 2952 was required to be filed. Under Code section 6038, this form was to be filed for all corporations incorporated in a foreign country which were controlled by one U.S. shareholder for at least 30 consecutive days during the taxable year of the foreign corporation. Control of a foreign corporation was defined as direct or indirect ownership of stock possessing more than 50 percent of the voting power or representing more than 50 percent of the total value of all shares of stock of the foreign corporation. Indirect control of a foreign corporation extended without limit from the directly-controlled (or first-tier) foreign corporation through succeeding tiers in a chain of control (see the discussion under "Form 2952").

A Controlled Foreign Corporation was defined differently for purposes of Subpart F of the Code. To determine which foreign corporations were considered Controlled Foreign Corporations whose undistributed earnings and profits could be subject to U.S. taxation through their U.S. shareholders as Subpart F income (see "Includable Income of Controlled Foreign Corporations"), more than 50 percent of the total voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote of the foreign corporation had to be owned, directly or indirectly, by U.S. shareholders on any day of the taxable year of the foreign corporation. Moreover, only U.S. shareholders with a 10 percent or more direct or indirect ownership in the foreign corporation were considered in determining whether the foreign corporation was owned more than 50 percent by U.S. shareholders. Only shareholders with a 10 percent or more ownership were subject to the provisions of Subpart F; shareholders owning less than 10 percent were taxed only on earnings and profits actually distributed to them by the foreign corporation.

In addition, there were the following special rules under Subpart F of the Code for determining whether a foreign corporation was a Controlled Foreign Corporation:

(1) For foreign corporations deriving income from the insurance of U.S. risks, the term Controlled Foreign Corporation included not only those defined above, but also any foreign corporation in which more than 25 percent of the total voting power of all classes of stock was owned, directly or indirectly, by U.S. shareholders and the gross amount of premiums attributable to the insurance of U.S. risks exceeded 75 percent of the gross amount of premiums from the insurance of all risks.

(2) The term Controlled Foreign Corporation did not include corporations created under the laws of Puerto Rico or a U.S. possession, if 80 percent or more of their gross income for the 3-year period immediately preceding the close of the taxable year (or part of the 3-year period if the corporation was less than 3 years old) was derived from within Puerto Rico or a U.S. possession and 50 percent or more of the gross income for that period was derived from the active conduct of certain trades or businesses within Puerto Rico or a U.S. possession.

Cost of Sales and Operations of U.S. Corporations

Cost of sales and operations generally included the direct costs incurred by the corporation in producing goods or providing services. Included were costs of materials used in manufacturing, cost of goods purchased for resale, direct labor, and operating expenses. Also included were costs incurred by Domestic International Sales Corporations (DISC's) for warehousing (which could include rental warehouse facilities, labor, heat, and power) of export-related articles.

Operating expenses, considered part of the cost of goods sold, included sales taxes and excise and related taxes only if the corporation treated these taxes as part of the sales price of the product. When these taxes were identified in cost of goods sold schedules, they were excluded from the cost of goods sold. Similarly, operating expenses for depreciation, depletion, amortization, rent of buildings or real estate, advertising, contributions to pension plans, and contributions to employee benefit programs, whether direct or indirect costs in the case of corporations with manufacturing or production operations, were excluded when identified in cost of goods sold schedules.

The income or loss from sales of securities, commodities, or real estate by stock and commodity brokers, dealers, and exchanges, and by real estate subdividers, developers, and operative builders was transferred from business receipts, and the net profit or loss from these transactions included in net gain or loss from sales or exchanges of noncapital assets. Special statistical treatment was also required for the few banking institutions which traded certain securities "on their own account" and which reported the purchase and sale of the securities as part of cost of sales and operations and business receipts, respectively. For the statistics, the amount paid for these securities was excluded from cost of sales and operations and a corresponding amount was excluded from business receipts. Therefore, the cost of such sales was excluded from the statistics.

Current Earnings and Profits of Controlled Foreign Corporations

Current earnings and profits represented the difference between the total earnings and profits of foreign corporations at the end of the current year (before reduction by any dividends paid during the year) and the accumulated earnings and profits of corporations as of the beginning of the year. The latter amount was after reduction by dividend distributions made in prior years. Current earnings and profits thus represented the change in the total earnings and profits available for dividend distributions to stockholders. Although current earnings and profits is, by definition, an after-tax measure of profit, they are shown in this report both before taxes and after taxes. Net current earnings and profits are the summation of positive current earnings and profits and negative current earnings and profits (deficit in current earnings and profits) for corporations having either positive or negative current earnings and profits.

In those instances where the current earnings and profits in item 11(a) of the Form 2952 was missing, but the net income per books for these foreign corporations was available from the income statement required to be filed with the Form 2952, this figure was used in place of the missing earnings and profits data. To the extent that net income per books was different from current earnings and profits, which was generally required to be computed on the basis of section 964 of the Code, there is some inconsistency in the current earnings and profits statistics.

Code section 964 and the regulations thereunder provided that the earnings and profits of a foreign corporation for its taxable year were to be computed substantially the same as if the corporation were a U.S. corporation by:

(1) preparing an income statement from the books of account regularly maintained by the corporation for the purpose of accounting to its shareholders;

(2) making adjustments necessary to conform the statement to acceptable accounting standards;

(3) making further adjustments to conform the statement to U.S. tax concepts (e.g., those relating to depreciation and depletion);

(4) translating the amounts shown into U.S. dollars; and, then

(5) adjusting the resulting amount of net income or deficit shown to reflect any gain or loss on currency exchange.

No accounting or tax adjustment provided for in (2) and (3) above was required unless it was "material." Whether an adjustment was material depended on the facts and circumstances of the particular case, including the amount of the adjustment, its size relative to the general level of the corporation's total assets and annual net income or deficit per books of account, the consistency with which a particular accounting practice had been applied, and whether the item to which the adjustment related was of a recurring or merely a nonrecurring nature.

The following exception to these rules was provided by regulations under Code section 964: "If the books of account regularly maintained by a foreign corporation for the purpose of accounting to its shareholders are kept in U.S. dollars and in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States, and if it is so elected by or on behalf of such corporation, the earnings and profits shall be determined in every respect as if it were a domestic corporation." Once made, the election to use this method of computing earnings and profits was irrevocable.

The generally accepted U.S. accounting principles that applied in making accounting adjustments included the following:

(1) Clear reflection of income.--Any accounting practice designed for purposes other than the clear reflection of income on a current basis of income and expense for the taxable year was not to be recognized. For example, adjustment would be required when provisions out of current income were made for arbitrary reserves, such as those for foreign currency devaluation, unrealized losses on securities, maintenance, contingencies, and similar items;

(2) Historical cost.--All physical assets (including inventory when reflected at cost) had to be taken into account at historical cost without regard to any appreciation or depreciation in value or in the relative value of the currency in which its cost was incurred. Depreciation, depletion, and amortization allowances were to be based on the historical cost of the underlying assets.

While the regulations defined historical cost and allowable depreciation methods for assets acquired in post-1962 years, there were no guidelines for determining the depreciation on assets acquired in years prior to 1963. However, the foreign corporation (or its controlling U.S. shareholders on its behalf) was allowed a choice of three methods of calculating depreciation on the historical cost of depreciable assets for this period. It could (1) choose to continue the method actually used if allowable under Code section 167, (2) adopt the straight-line method, or (3) adopt the same method of depreciation that the corporation adopted for its first post-1962 year.

Direct or Indirect Control of Controlled Foreign Corporations

Direct control indicated that the U.S. parent corporation owned more than 50 percent of the voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote or more than 50 percent of the value of all shares of stock of a foreign corporation. Indirect control meant that the U.S. parent corporation controlled the foreign corporation through indirect ownership extending from a directly-controlled (or first-tier) Controlled Foreign Corporation through succeeding tiers in a chain of control (see discussion under "Form 2952").

Distributions of Controlled Foreign Corporations

The distributions of Controlled Foreign Corporations consisted of dividends paid to shareholders of the corporation, capital gain distributions, and distributions paid out of capital (capital stock, paid-in capital, or capital surplus). Liquidating dividends could also be included; no attempt was made to exclude them. For the most part, the amounts of distributions were used as reported. Therefore, the amounts shown are not completely comparable to the amount shown for distributions of U.S. corporations.

Distributions of Controlled Foreign Corporations was obtained from item 11(c), "Distributions out of current earnings and profits" and item 11(d), "Other distributions," of the Form 2952. The source of "Other distributions" was required to be reported on Form 2952 and based on this, data are shown in table 23 (for 1972 only) for distributions out of accumulated earnings and profits and out of capital, and also for liquidating distributions and capital gains and other distributions. When these data were not reported on the Form 2952 itself, they were obtained from financial statements required to be filed with Form 2952.

It should be noted that, unlike the data shown in the tables for dividends paid by Controlled Foreign Corporations (see the discussion below under this term), the data for distributions of Controlled Foreign Corporations are not shown by type of related person to whom the distribution was made because this information was not reported on Form 2952 as it was in the case of dividends paid.

Distributions of U.S. Corporations to Stockholders Except in Own Stock

This item consisted of cash and other property, generally reported as part of the analysis of unappropriated retained earnings. Liquidating dividends, when identified, were excluded.

In those instances where a corporation reported one total for distributions to stockholders and did not identify this distribution as cash or stock, the total was treated as a distribution to stockholders in cash and property other than in the company's own stock.

Regulated investment companies and real estate investment trusts could treat certain dividends paid after the close of their taxable year as distributions during the current taxable year. In a similar manner, for Small Business Corporations electing to be taxed through stockholders, distributions of money made within 2-1/2 months after the close of the taxable year were considered to be distributions of the corporation's undistributed taxable income of the preceding taxable year. Otherwise, the statistics do not include amounts taxed to stockholders in 1968 or 1972 (the two years covered by this report), but which would not actually be distributed to them until a future year. Conversely, the statistics do include amounts taxed through stockholders in previous years, but which were not actually distributed until 1968 or 1972.

For Domestic International Sales Corporations (DISC's), only amounts actually distributed (i.e., distributions that were made to meet the DISC qualification requirement under Code section 992, including "deficiency distributions" made after the close of the taxable year to avoid disqualification as a DISC, or other actual distributions) were included in the statistics. Dividends which were not actually distributed, but rather deemed distributed under section 995, were excluded.

Dividends Paid by Controlled Foreign Corporations

Dividends paid by Controlled Foreign Corporations were reported on Form 2952 as a transaction with the U.S. parent corporation and three other categories of related persons (see "Related Persons of Controlled Foreign Corporations").

It should be noted that while the data shown in the tables for distributions of Controlled Foreign Corporations include payments made to all shareholders of the corporation, both U.S. and foreign, the data for dividends paid by Controlled Foreign Corporations do not represent the total dividends paid. As mentioned above, statistics are provided only for payments to the U.S. parent corporation and to three other categories of related persons of the Controlled Foreign Corporation.

Dividends Received by Controlled Foreign Corporations

Dividends received by Controlled Foreign Corporations were reported on Form 2952 as a transaction with four different categories of related persons (see "Related Persons of Controlled Foreign Corporations"). They usually represented a distribution of profits from a second- or lower-tier foreign corporation to its higher-tier foreign corporate parent. The foreign corporation receiving the dividends was generally either a holding company or an operating corporation which organized a subsidiary either in another country or in another activity in the same country.

Dividends Received by U.S. Corporations From DISC's (Domestic International Sales Corporations)

In general, the stockholders of a DISC were deemed to receive an annual dividend equal to one-half of the DISC's taxable income. This constructive distribution was fully taxable to the stockholders, even if the earnings were not actually distributed currently to them. Also included in this item were actual distributions out of accumulated DISC income of the current or prior year, i.e., out of DISC income which was not deemed to have been distributed.

U.S. income taxation was deferred on a portion of the DISC's taxable income which was not deemed distributed until one of the following events occurred: the income was actually distributed to the DISC's stockholders; a stockholder disposed of the DISC stock; the DISC was liquidated; or the election to be treated as a DISC was terminated or revoked.

U.S. corporations receiving DISC dividends were not permitted the intercorporate dividends received deduction, which was designed to alleviate multiple taxation of corporate earnings. Because the DISC itself was not subject to taxation, the dividends received deduction was not applicable.

Dividends deemed or actually paid by a DISC were treated as dividends from a foreign corporation to the extent that the dividends were attributable to certain DISC export receipts. Thus, stockholders could claim a foreign tax credit for any foreign taxes imposed directly on a DISC dividend. U.S. corporations that were DISC stockholders could also claim an indirect credit (for taxes they were deemed to have paid) for the foreign taxes paid by a DISC. As discussed under "Foreign Tax Credit Claimed," the credit limitation was computed separately (from all other foreign source income) with respect to the aggregate dividends received from all DISC's.

Dividends Received by U.S. Corporations From Foreign Corporations

Two measures of foreign dividends received by U.S. corporations are shown in this report. The first discussed below relates to the total dividends received from all foreign corporations reported in the dividend schedule of the corporation income tax return. The second pertains to the dividends paid by Controlled Foreign Corporations, reported in item 12, line h of Form 2952, and is discussed under that term in this section.

Dividends were paid from current as well as prior years' earnings and profits of companies incorporated in foreign countries.

Dividends from foreign corporations included:

(1) dividends, subject to the 85 percent deduction for intercorporate dividends received, that were received by U.S. corporations from foreign corporations at least 50 percent or more of whose gross income was "effectively connected" with a business conducted in the United States,

(2) dividends, subject to the 100 percent deduction, received by U.S. corporations from wholly-owned foreign subsidiaries, all of whose gross income was "effectively connected" with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business, and

(3) any other foreign dividends, not subject to a deduction, which included--

(a) "minimum distributions" of Controlled Foreign Corporation profits under Subpart F of the Code (see also, "Includable Income of Controlled Foreign Corporations"),

(b) certain gains from the sale, exchange, or redemption of Controlled Foreign Corporation stock, and

(c) foreign dividends received by Small Business Corporations electing to be taxed through shareholders.

Excluded from the statistics for dividends received from foreign corporations was the "gross-up" of foreign taxes paid or deemed paid on the profits from which the dividends of related (or first-tier) foreign corporations, i.e., foreign corporations in which a U.S. corporation directly owned 10 percent or more of the voting stock, incorporated in economically developed countries were distributed. This was done even though the "gross-up" was considered by law to be part of the dividends received. Also excluded was income only constructively received from foreign corporations controlled by U.S. stockholders, which was reported in the dividend schedule of the corporation income tax return as "Includable income of Controlled Foreign Corporations," along with the "gross-up" associated with this income. If these amounts were actually distributed at a later date, they were neither retaxed nor reported.

Earnings and Profits

See "Current Earnings and Profits of Controlled Foreign Corporations."

Economically Developed and Less-Developed Countries

In the tables presenting data on the geographic location of U.S. corporate operations abroad, the countries are not only grouped into subareas and areas, but also into categories based on the stage of their economic development. These groupings are "Not economically less-developed countries," i.e., economically developed countries and "Economically less-developed countries." The "Sino-Soviet Bloc" countries were excluded from both categories and are shown as a separate category in the tables.

Based on the provisions of Code section 955(c)(3) and Executive Order 11071, effective December 31, 1962, the following areas were designated as economically less-developed countries:

(1) all foreign countries (including trust territories) other than Australia, Austria, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Italy, Japan, Liechtenstein, Luxembourg, Monaco, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, San Marino, South Africa, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, United Kingdom, West Germany, and any country within the "Sino-Soviet Bloc;"

(2) each overseas territory, department, province, and possession (other than Hong Kong) of any foreign country other than of a country within the "Sino-Soviet Bloc;" and

(3) Puerto Rico and U.S. possessions.

As a result, the category "economically developed countries" included those listed in (1) above (excluding the "Sino-Soviet Bloc") and Hong Kong. However, it should be noted that while "Sino-Soviet Bloc" countries were not included in the statistics for economically developed countries, they were treated as such under the Code in determining whether or not a foreign corporation was an economically developed country corporation.

Certain tax advantages were available for operations in economically less-developed countries.

(1) Under Subpart F of the Code certain undistributed profits of Controlled Foreign Corporations were included in the gross income of U.S. corporations for tax purposes. As explained under "Includable Income of Controlled Foreign Corporations," the U.S. corporation's pro rata share of the Controlled Foreign Corporation's dividends, interest, and net gains from sales or exchanges of property attributable to qualified investments in economically less-developed countries was excluded from "foreign base company income," the major component of Subpart F income. This exclusion continued until such time as the investment was withdrawn from the economically less-developed country.

(2) The U.S. corporation electing to receive a "minimum distribution," by means of a dividend, of the profits from all of its Controlled Foreign Corporations (in order to avoid including Subpart F income in gross income) could elect to exclude the profits of all such foreign corporations which qualified as economically less-developed country corporations from the computation of the minimum distribution. There was one exception though. The profits of an economically less-developed country corporation could not be excluded if the U.S. corporation had indirect control of an economically developed country corporation through ownership in the economically less-developed country corporation.

(3) When dividends were paid by an economically less-developed country corporation, the foreign taxes deemed paid with respect to these dividends (for which a foreign tax credit was claimed) were not added to the dividends (as the so-called "Foreign dividend gross-up") thereby increasing U.S. taxable income as they were in the case of dividends paid by economically developed country corporations. However, the computation of foreign taxes deemed paid differed, depending on the status of the foreign corporation, with the effect of increasing the deemed paid credit for economically developed country corporations.

Incorporation in an economically less-developed country did not automatically qualify the foreign corporation as an economically less-developed country corporation. To qualify as an economically less-developed country corporation under Code section 955(c)(1) the foreign corporation (which did not necessarily have to be incorporated in an economically less-developed country) had to be engaged in the active conduct of a trade or business and:

(1) at least 80 percent of its gross income for the taxable year had to be derived from sources within economically less-developed countries; and

(2) at least 80 percent or more of the value of its assets on each day of the taxable year had to consist of property used in such trades or businesses and be located in economically less-developed countries. However, money, bank deposits, stock of other economically less-developed country corporations, and certain other types of property could be counted in with the qualifying assets, even if they were not located in an economically less-developed country.

In addition, for foreign tax credit purposes, Code section 902(d) provided that a foreign corporation owning at least 10 percent or more of the voting stock of an economically less-developed country corporation was also itself considered to be an economically less-developed country corporation if it met both of the 80 percent tests specified above.

A shipping or aircraft company could qualify as an economically less-developed country corporation under Code section 955(c)(2) if:

(1) it derived at least 80 percent of its gross income for the taxable year from the use in foreign commerce of aircraft or vessels registered under the laws of an economically less-developed country, or the performance of services directly related to the use of such aircraft or vessels, or the sale or exchange of such aircraft or vessels; and from dividends and interest received from foreign corporations which were themselves economically less-developed country corporations, in which the foreign corporation owned at least 10 percent of the voting stock, and gain from the sale or exchange of stock of such economically less-developed country corporations; and

(2) at least 80 percent of its assets on each day of the taxable year consisted of assets used, or held for use, for or in connection with the production of income described above in (1) and of property which was not considered "U.S. property," although located in the United States, because it was used in foreign commerce as described in Code section 956(b)(2).

Foreign Dividend Income Resulting From Foreign Taxes Deemed Paid ("Foreign Dividend Gross-Up")

This term applied to certain foreign taxes on the profits of related (or first-tier) foreign corporations, i.e., foreign corporations in which a U.S. corporation directly owned 10 percent or more of the voting stock, that did not qualify as less-developed country corporations (see "Economically Developed and Less-Developed Countries"). Section 78 of the Code provided that when dividends were distributed to a U.S. corporation from these foreign profits, the U.S. corporation was required to increase (or "gross-up") such dividends received by the amount of the foreign taxes deemed paid with respect to these dividends, if the U.S. corporation claimed a foreign tax credit for these taxes. Also, foreign taxes deemed paid with respect to includable income of Controlled Foreign Corporations that did not qualify as economically less-developed country corporations were used to "gross-up" this constructively received income and thus constituted a part of the foreign dividend income resulting from foreign taxes deemed paid.

Although the foreign taxes deemed paid, described above, were treated as dividend income for U.S. tax purposes, they are shown separately in the statistics as "Foreign dividend income resulting from foreign taxes deemed paid" and have been excluded from the statistics for foreign dividends and includable income of Controlled Foreign Corporations.

Foreign Income Taxes Paid by Controlled Foreign Corporations

These were the foreign income, war profits, and excess profits taxes paid or accrued by Controlled Foreign Corporations to foreign countries or U.S. possessions (including Puerto Rico) and to their political subdivisions. When foreign corporations had business operations in a country different from the one in which they were incorporated or had other income such as dividends coming from sources in other countries (including the United States), taxes for such corporations included the taxes imposed by these other countries (including the United States) on the income coming from outside the country of incorporation.

Foreign income taxes paid by Controlled Foreign Corporation did not include withholding taxes paid for stockholders to whom distributions were made. However, they did include taxes paid or accrued in lieu of the foreign country's regular income or profits taxes.

Foreign Tax Credit Claimed

Foreign tax credit claimed was based on Code sections 901-906, 960, and 963(f) and could only be applied by U.S. corporations against their normal tax, surtax, and alternative tax and any "surcharge" based on these taxes. The credit was allowed for income, war profits, and excess profits taxes paid, accrued, or deemed paid to foreign countries or U.S. possessions (including Puerto Rico).

In addition to most U.S. corporations, the credit could be claimed by foreign corporations engaged in trade or business in the United States for foreign taxes on income "effectively connected" with the foreign corporation's U.S. business. The credit was not allowed for Small Business Corporations electing to be taxed through stockholders, even when these corporations were taxed on certain capital gain income. Since Domestic International Sales Corporations (DISC's) themselves were not taxable, the foreign tax credit was not applicable; however, DISC stockholders could claim a credit for foreign taxes paid by a DISC and foreign taxes imposed on dividends paid by a DISC.

Whenever the foreign tax credit was taken, the alternative option, a business deduction from gross income for foreign taxes could not be taken in computing taxable income for U.S. tax purposes. Also, a business deduction could not be taken for unused taxes carried over from a year in which the foreign tax credit was claimed.

Under Code section 901, the computation of a U.S. corporation's foreign tax credit included foreign taxes paid or accrued by the U.S. corporation itself plus foreign taxes deemed to have been paid by it under Code sections 902 and 960. For taxable years beginning after 1969, foreign income taxes paid or accrued to a foreign country or U.S. possession (including Puerto Rico) on "foreign mineral income" from sources within the country or U.S. possession (including Puerto Rico) had to be reduced, for foreign tax credit purposes, to the extent that the foreign taxes (or, if smaller, the amount of U.S. tax that would have been computed on such income without the percentage depletion deduction) exceeded the U.S. income tax on such income.

Code section 902 provided that when dividends were received by a U.S. corporation from a related (or first-tier) foreign corporation, i.e., a foreign corporation in which the U.S. corporation directly owned 10 percent or more of the voting stock, the U.S. corporation was deemed to have paid a proportionate share of the foreign taxes paid (or accrued) or deemed paid by the related foreign corporation on the profits out of which the dividends were paid. The related (or first-tier) foreign corporation was, in turn, deemed to have paid foreign taxes paid or deemed paid associated with dividends received from a second-tier foreign corporation in which the related foreign corporation owned (a) at least 50 percent of the voting stock or (b) after January 12, 1971, at least 10 percent of the voting stock, if the U.S. corporation had at least a 5 percent voting-stock interest in the second-tier foreign corporation. Also, after January 12, 1971, if the second-tier foreign corporation had at least a 10 percent voting-stock interest in a third-tier foreign corporation and the U.S. corporation had at least a 5 percent indirect voting-stock interest in the third-tier corporation, then the second-tier foreign corporation was deemed to have paid foreign taxes associated with dividends received from the third-tier foreign corporation. The taxes of fourth- and lower-tier foreign corporations were not eligible for the credit for foreign taxes deemed paid.

The U.S. corporation could, therefore, claim a credit for the foreign taxes of a related foreign corporation and of second- and third-tier foreign corporations in the same chain of ownership, as if the U.S. corporation itself had paid the foreign taxes. However, the credit for foreign taxes deemed paid did not apply until foreign dividends were paid out of the profits of the related foreign corporation to the U.S. corporation.

Different rules for computing foreign taxes deemed paid were prescribed depending on whether the related foreign corporation was an economically developed or an economically less-developed country corporation (see the discussion under "Economically Developed and Less-Developed Countries"). It was the status of the related (or first-tier) foreign corporation that determined the computation used for both the first-tier and lower-tier foreign corporations in the same chain of ownership.

To determine foreign taxes deemed paid, the dividends paid first had to be attributed to a particular year's profits. If the dividends were from the profits of more than 1 year, the taxes deemed paid had to be computed separately for each year. The results of each separate calculation were then aggregated to determine total foreign taxes deemed paid. In general, dividends paid in the first 60 days of any taxable year were deemed paid from the profits of the preceding taxable year. In all other cases dividends were deemed paid from the profits most recently earned. The dividends paid were attributed first to the extent of profits of the current year, and then to the profits of each prior year, in inverse order, to the extent that there were profits in those years.

Code section 960 provided special rules regarding the credit for foreign taxes deemed paid when undistributed profits of Controlled Foreign Corporations were only constructively received by a U.S. corporation. The credit was only allowed in regard to taxes on profits of first- and second-tier foreign corporations, and in addition, a second-tier corporation was treated, for purposes of computing foreign taxes deemed paid, as if it were a first-tier foreign corporation.

Consequently, constructive income attributable to the profits of the second-tier foreign corporation did not pass through the related (or first-tier) foreign corporation as was the case when dividends were paid by second-tier foreign corporations. Also, while the ownership requirement of the U.S. corporation in the first-tier foreign corporation was at least 10 percent of the voting stock, in the case of the second-tier foreign corporation, the first-tier foreign corporation had to own at least 50 percent of the voting stock. Finally, special rules were provided for the computation of the foreign tax credit in the year of actual receipt in the form of dividends of the previously taxed profits of the Controlled Foreign Corporation.

The amount of foreign taxes which could actually be claimed as a credit in any one year was limited, so that the taxpayer was subject to the higher of the U.S. or foreign tax rate on taxable income from foreign sources. The ceiling on the foreign tax credit prevented the credit from reducing that portion of the U.S. tax attributable to income derived from within the United States. Taxpayers were permitted to choose from two alternative limitations:
(1) the per-country limitation and
(2) the overall limitation.

Under the per-country limitation the tax credit was computed separately for each foreign country or U.S. possession (including Puerto Rico). The credit for foreign taxes paid to each country was limited to that proportion of U.S. income tax which taxable income from the country or possession bore to total taxable income.

Under the overall limitation, the amount of credit was computed based on the sum of foreign taxes paid to all foreign countries and U.S. possessions. The credit could not exceed the proportion of U.S. income tax which taxable income from all foreign sources bore to total taxable income.

Since the Code allowed Western Hemisphere Trade Corporations to take the foreign tax credit as well as the deduction, a Western Hemisphere Trade Corporation taking the deduction was able to take a foreign tax credit equal to its foreign taxes up to a maximum of its U.S.

tax liability which, as explained under "Western Hemisphere Trade Corporation Deduction," was 34 percent of taxable income for 1972. Under Code section 1503(b) there was a special restriction for Western Hemisphere Trade Corporations included in a consolidated return on which both the Western Hemisphere Trade Corporation deduction and the foreign tax credit were taken, if the overall limitation was used. In 1972, for example, the portion of foreign taxes in excess of 34 percent, and up to and including 48 percent of foreign source taxable income of the Western Hemisphere Trade Corporation (computed without the Western Hemisphere Trade Corporation deduction) could not be used in computing the foreign tax credit in the current year or be carried over or carried back to other years for use in computing the credit for these years in the manner described below. This restriction was imposed so that the foreign taxes of Western Hemisphere Trade Corporations could not be used as a credit against the U.S. tax attributable to the other foreign income of the affiliated group included in the consolidated return. (Also, see discussion under "Western Hemisphere Trade Corporation Deduction.")

Generally, income of all types could be combined for purposes of computing the foreign tax credit. However, there were exceptions for certain interest income and, after 1971, for dividends received from Domestic International Sales Corporations ("DISC dividends"). The credit was computed separately under Code section 904(f) for the taxes on the certain interest income (generally investment interest, other than that derived from any transaction directly related to the active conduct of a trade or business or from a banking, financing, or similar business), using the per-country limitation, regardless of the limitation method used for the corporation's other foreign income. For DISC dividends, the foreign tax credit limitation was computed separately with respect to aggregate dividends received from all DISC's.

Some corporations were not permitted to claim the entire amount of their computed foreign tax credit because the income tax regulations under section 963(f) provided that, under certain circumstances, there had to be a partial deferral of the credit to a future year. The reason for this was that when the U.S. corporation elected to receive a "minimum distribution" from Controlled Foreign Corporations in order to exclude certain undistributed profits of these foreign corporations from its gross income, the foreign tax credit for taxes deemed paid with respect to these dividend distributions generally could not reduce the aggregate U.S. and foreign income taxes on the dividends to less than 90 percent of what the U.S. tax would have been on the foreign profits from which the dividends were paid.

Foreign taxes in excess of the limitation for any one year could be carried back, chronologically, to the 2 preceding years and then carried over, chronologically, to the 5 succeeding years to reduce U.S. income tax, subject to the foreign tax credit limitation of the years to which they were carried. Any unused foreign taxes remaining at the end of the carryover period could not be claimed.

The statistics for each year, therefore, include available excess foreign taxes carried over from the 5 preceding years. However, because Statistics of Income is based on returns as originally filed, the amount of excess foreign taxes carried back from the 2 succeeding years for inclusion in a recomputed foreign tax credit for 1968 and 1972, the two years covered by this report, is not available. Therefore, the statistics for the credit for these years are necessarily incomplete.

Form 2952

Form 2952, Information Return with Respect to Controlled Foreign Corporations, was required to be filed for each foreign corporation controlled by a U.S. shareholder. A U.S. shareholder was considered to control any foreign corporation in which more than 50 percent of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote, or more than 50 percent of the total value of all shares of stock was owned by the shareholder, directly or indirectly, for 30 or more consecutive days during the annual accounting period of such foreign corporation. The information reported on Form 2952 covered the annual accounting period of the foreign corporation ending with or within the U.S. shareholder's accounting period.

A U.S. shareholder was "deemed" to control a second- or lower-tier foreign corporation if it controlled a first-tier foreign corporation which, in turn, controlled a second-tier foreign corporation, which, in turn, controlled a third-tier foreign corporation, and so forth down through the chain of control. For example, if U.S. corporation A owned more than 50 percent of the value of stock of foreign corporation B, which, in turn, owned more than 50 percent of the value of stock of foreign corporation C, and foreign corporation C owned more than 50 percent of the value of stock of foreign corporation D, then corporation A, the U.S. corporation, directly controlled foreign corporation B, and was deemed to control foreign corporations C and D, and accordingly was required to file a Form 2952 for each of corporations B, C, and D.

Geographic Classification: Area or Country

U.S. corporations controlling foreign corporations were required to report, on Form 2952, the foreign country or U.S. possession (including Puerto Rico) under whose laws the foreign corporation was incorporated and also the country of principal place of business. The grouping of the countries into areas and subareas in the tables was based on the classification of country designations used by the Department of Commerce in compiling U.S. foreign trade statistics.

The principal place of business was frequently outside the country of incorporation for firms incorporated in "tax haven" countries, i.e., countries with low or no income taxes, as well as in countries with relatively low or no taxes on income from sources outside the country of incorporation. Controlled Foreign Corporations incorporated in such countries often also had subsidiaries incorporated in a different country.

For the 1972 statistics, if no one principal place (country) of business could be determined for a particular foreign corporation because the Form 2952 showed countries in more than one geographic area (e.g., Latin America, Europe, Asia), a special category, "Multiple area activity," was added. For the 1968 statistics, these foreign corporations were included in "Country not stated."

Foreign corporations which were engaged in high-seas operations such as worldwide tanker operations and marine transportation showed high-seas operations as their principal place (country) of business on Form 2952. For the 1972 statistics, a special category, "High seas activity," was added. However, for the 1968 statistics, these foreign corporations were classified in "Country not stated."

In addition to the geographic classification of the data by area, subarea, and country, the countries were grouped for the statistics into categories based on their stage of economic development (see "Economically Developed and Less-Developed Countries") and, also, for 1972, into an additional classification, "OPEC countries." For 1972, the members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) were:

Algeria	Libya
Ecuador	Nigeria
Indonesia	Qatar
Iran	Saudi Arabia
Iraq	United Arab Emirates
Kuwait	Venezuela

Inactive Corporations

Inactive U.S. corporation returns were defined as those showing no item of income or deduction. Returns were filed by inactive U.S. corporations in accordance with the regulation that a U.S. corporation in existence during any portion of a taxable year had to file a return. Returns of inactive U.S. corporations were excluded from the statistics in this report.

However, the tables include both active and inactive Controlled Foreign Corporations. For 1968 about 3,400 and for 1972 about 5,300 inactive Controlled Foreign Corporations were included in the statistics. An inactive Controlled Foreign Corporation was one which reported neither current earnings and profits (or a deficit in current earnings and profits) nor foreign income taxes paid and showed only those transactions which were indicative of passive investment activity rather than business activity. Transactions regarded as indicative of passive investment activity were dividends paid, and amounts borrowed or loaned.

Includable Income of Controlled Foreign Corporations

Under the Internal Revenue Code, U.S. stockholders of foreign corporations were generally not taxed on the profits of the foreign corporation until those profits were repatriated. The major exception to this general rule was provided in "Subpart F—Controlled Foreign Corporations" (Code sections 951-964). Code section 951 provided that U.S. stockholders include in their gross income certain undistributed profits of foreign corporations controlled by U.S. stockholders (see "Controlled Foreign Corporations").

Includable income of Controlled Foreign Corporations consisted of:

(1) Subpart F income, defined below, except if a certain "minimum distribution" of the profits of the Controlled Foreign Corporations was made;

(2) any previously excluded Subpart F income which had been withdrawn from investment in qualified assets in economically less-developed countries;

(3) any increase in Controlled Foreign Corporation earnings invested in U.S. property; and

(4) any previously excluded Subpart F income withdrawn from Export Trade Corporation assets.

Subpart F income, which was defined in Code section 952, included the sum of:

(1) income attributable to premiums from insurance of U.S. risks received by foreign insurance companies that were Controlled Foreign Corporations, and

(2) "foreign base company income" which included:

(a) "foreign personal holding company income" (in contrast to business operating income, this was "passive" investment income, including interest, dividends, rents, and royalties, but with certain exceptions);

(b) "foreign base company sales income" (generally from sales of property produced in the United States or a foreign country and sold through a related distributor organized in another country, which had lower tax rates, for use outside that country); and

(c) "foreign base company services income" (in general, income from services performed or furnished for a related person, which included corporations, outside the country of incorporation of the Controlled Foreign Corporation).

Income from qualified investments in economically less-developed countries or from certain sales of U.S. exports, and income derived from the use of aircraft or vessels in foreign commerce or related services was specifically excluded from "foreign base company income."

If the gross "foreign base company income" (before the above specified exclusions for income from economically less-developed countries and sales of U.S. exports) was less than 30 percent of the Controlled Foreign Corporation's gross income, it was not taken into account. If such income was over 70 percent of gross income, the Controlled Foreign Corporation's entire gross income (less specified exclusions and allowable deductions) was treated as "foreign base company income." If the percentage was between 30 and 70, only "foreign base company income" was taken into account.

In addition, "foreign base company income" did not include any item of income the Controlled Foreign Corporation received if it could be shown, with respect to such income, that the creation or organization of the Controlled Foreign Corporation did not have the effect of substantially reducing income or similar taxes.

Code section 956 provided for taxation to U.S. stockholders of the increase in earnings of Controlled Foreign Corporations invested in U.S. property. For this purpose, U.S. property generally included: tangible property (real or personal) located in the United States; stock of a U.S. corporation; an obligation of a U.S. person; and any right to the use of intangible property (such as a patent or copyright, an invention, model, or design, whether or not patented, or a secret formula or process) acquired or developed by the Controlled Foreign Corporation for use in the United States.

Code section 963 provided that Subpart F income of a Controlled Foreign Corporation was not taxable to the U.S. corporate stockholder if the stockholder included the Controlled Foreign Corporation in a "minimum distribution" election and thus actually received, by means of a dividend, a minimum amount of the profits of the Controlled Foreign Corporation or the profits of a group or chain of foreign corporations in which the Controlled Foreign Corporation was included. The required minimum distribution included the foreign taxes deemed paid with respect to the dividend distribution (see "Foreign Dividend Income Resulting From Foreign Taxes Deemed Paid").

The schedule of minimum distributions, provided in Code section 963, was designed to make the aggregate U.S. and foreign income taxes on the profits of the Controlled Foreign Corporations included in the election equal to about 90 percent of what the U.S. tax would have been on these same profits.

Flexibility was allowed the U.S. corporation in qualifying for exemption from Subpart F taxation under the minimum distribution election by allowing the corporation to: (1) treat most foreign branches, which had the attributes of separate businesses, as wholly-owned Controlled Foreign Corporations and to consider their profits to have been distributed to the U.S. corporation; (2) include second- or lower-tier foreign corporations (in a group or chain of foreign corporations) which were not Controlled Foreign Corporations; (3) exclude all economically less-developed country corporations from a group of Controlled Foreign Corporations under the U.S. corporation's "control," provided the corporation did not own stock of an economically developed country corporation indirectly through the economically less-developed country corporation; and (4) exclude any Controlled Foreign Corporation whose profits could not have been distributed because of currency restrictions.

Another relief provision, provided by Subpart G of the Code (sections 970-972), enabled the taxpayer to reduce Subpart F income on the basis of certain sales of U.S. exports of Controlled Foreign Corporations qualifying as "Export Trade Corporations." However, as a result of the Revenue Act of 1971, which established the Domestic International Sales Corporation (DISC), no Controlled Foreign Corporation could qualify as an Export Trade Corporation for any taxable year beginning after October 31, 1971, unless it qualified for a taxable year beginning before this date. Then, if a corporation failed to qualify as an Export Trade Corporation for a period of any 3 consecutive taxable years beginning after October 31, 1971, it could not qualify for any taxable year beginning after such period.

It should be noted that based on a review of returns in the sample used for Statistics of Income--1970, Corporation Income Tax Returns, it was estimated that there were only about 120 Export Trade Corporations for which a Form 3646, Income from Controlled Foreign Corporations was filed.

Code section 960 provided special rules regarding the credit for foreign taxes deemed paid on includable income of Controlled Foreign Corporations (see "Foreign Tax Credit Claimed").

Income Subject to U.S. Tax

The Code provided several tax bases for different types of U.S. corporations. For purposes of this report, they included the "taxable income" base, defined by Code section 63, used by the majority of corporations and to which the regular normal tax and surtax rates applied; a variation of this base in combination with long-term capital gain when the lower capital gains rate was applicable; and the several tax bases applicable to insurance companies. All of these tax bases are included under this heading.

For most corporations, income subject to U.S. tax consisted of net income less certain additional deductions, described below as statutory special deductions, and was equal to the "taxable income" mentioned above. There were exceptions to this general rule because income subject to U.S. tax for some corporations, e.g., life insurance companies, was not derived from the amounts shown as net income.

Statutory special deductions included the deductions taken for: (1) "net operating losses" of prior years, (2) intercorporate dividends received, and (3) dividends paid on certain preferred stock of public utilities. Also included was (4) the special deduction allowed Western Hemisphere Trade Corporations under Code section 922. (These deductions were in addition to the ordinary and necessary business deductions allowed by the Code and were, therefore, treated for the statistics as deductions from net income.)

The Western Hemisphere Trade Corporation deduction is the only statutory special deduction shown in this report (see "Western Hemisphere Trade Corporation Deduction").

Industrial Classification

Industrial divisions and groups were used as a basis for classifying tax return data according to the principal business activity of the corporation. Returns were classified in the industry which accounted for the largest portion of total receipts even though the return may have been for a company engaged in many business activities or may have been a consolidated return filed for an affiliated group of corporations.

Year-to-year changes in the classification of specific corporations could have resulted from mergers and other changes in organization or from filing consolidated returns as well as from a change in the principal source of total receipts.

The industries used in the report generally conform with the Enterprise Standard Industrial Classification, authorized by the Office of Federal Statistical Policy and Standards, Department of Commerce. The structure of the classification follows closely along the lines of the Standard Industrial Classification, which was designed as a means of classifying separate, single-activity, establishments rather than the companies of which these establishments were a part. Some departures from the classification system were made for Statistics of Income for the finance industries in order to reflect particular provisions of the Internal Revenue Code.

There were no changes in the definitions of the industry groups used for the period 1968-1972. A relatively few changes did occur in comparison to the definitions used for the international income and tax statistics for 1964-1966 as a result of the 1967 and 1968 revisions of the Standard Industrial Classification and Enterprise Standard Industrial Classification systems, respectively. However, the changes are not apparent at the "major industry" level which is used in this report. A detailed comparison of the industry groupings as a result of these revisions is presented in Statistics of Income--1968, Corporation Income Tax Returns.

In the tables, the data are classified by the industrial activity of both the U.S. parent corporation and the Controlled Foreign Corporation. The industrial classification of the Controlled Foreign Corporation was based on the description of the principal business activity reported on the Form 2952.

Although sufficient information was generally available to classify U.S. corporations by the industry accounting for the largest portion of total receipts, information permitting such classification was less adequate for Controlled Foreign Corporations. For 1972, of the approximately 24,000 active Controlled Foreign Corporations, about 760 were classified as "Nature of business not allocable" because there was insufficient information on the Form 2952 regarding the industrial activity of the foreign corporation. None of the U.S. parent corporations were classified in this industry category. In addition, in some instances the industry description on the Form 2952 was not adequate to determine which major industry within an industrial division the foreign corporation should have been classified in and this resulted in an overstatement of the "Other" categories within the respective industrial divisions.

Interest Paid by U.S. Corporations

These amounts were deductible as ordinary and necessary business expenses and included interest paid by corporations on business indebtedness. Included in the statistics were amounts paid on installment purchases if they were stated in the contract, as well as certain unstated amounts under Code section 483. For banking and savings institutions the amounts also included interest paid on deposits and withdrawable shares.

Interest Received by U.S. Corporations on Other Than Government Obligations

This interest consisted of amounts received on loans, notes, mortgages, bonds, bank deposits, and corporate bonds less amortizable bond premium. For installment sales, interest received included amounts stated in the contract and certain unstated amounts on interest, as provided in Code section 483.

Interest Received (or Paid) by Controlled Foreign Corporations

Interest received or paid was reported on Form 2952 as a transaction with four different categories of related persons (see "Related Persons of Controlled Foreign Corporations"). These transactions represented the charge for provision of working capital needs in the case of short-term loans or the return on an investment of loaned capital in the case of long-term loans.

Investment Credit

Investment credit was the reduction, after limitations, of income tax allowed U.S. corporations based on their investment in certain depreciable property (chiefly machinery and equipment) with a useful life of a least 3 years (4 years for 1968) and, for the most part, used within the United States. Such property could not be disposed of prior to the end of the useful life used as the basis for the credit. Otherwise, the credit already taken had to be repaid as an additional tax for the year in which the disposition occurred.

In general, the investment credit before limitations was equal to 7 percent of "qualified investment" (4 percent in the case of "public utility property"), an amount derived from the cost of the property and designed to give weight to investments in longer-lived assets. The credit claimed could equal the U.S. income tax available for investment credit, i.e., income tax (excluding tax from recomputing prior year investment credit and, after 1968, additional tax for tax preferences) less foreign tax credit unless the tax available for credit was in excess of $25,000. Then, the investment credit was limited to $25,000 plus 50 percent of the excess over $25,000. Certain limitations were applicable to special classes or kinds of corporations and for used property. Amounts in excess of these limitations could be carried to other years to be claimed as a credit.

The Tax Reform Act of 1969 provided that the investment credit was not available for property acquired after April 18, 1969, or for property on which the construction, reconstruction, or erection began after that date. However, the Revenue Act of 1971 restored the investment credit for property acquired after August 15, 1971, or ordered after March 31, 1971.

Net Income (or Deficit)

This was the difference between gross taxable receipts and the ordinary and necessary business deductions allowed by the Code. Gross taxable receipts included, not only actual receipts, but also certain "constructive" receipts (see "Includable Income of Controlled Foreign Corporations" and "Foreign Dividend Income Resulting From Foreign Taxes Deemed Paid").

The statistics for net income are generally larger than the amounts shown for income subject to U.S. tax. The principal reason for this is that certain statutory special (nonbusiness) deductions (mentioned under "Income subject to U.S. tax") from net income were allowed most corporations in computing their income subject to U.S. tax. Also, the net income of Small Business Corporations is included in the statistics for net income while only certain long-term capital gains which were taxable to these corporations are included in the statistics for income subject to U.S. tax. In addition, the net income statistics include the amounts for Domestic International Sales Corporations (DISC's); since these corporations were not taxable, they had no income subject to U.S. tax to report. Moreover, the net income of life and mutual nonlife insurance companies was not related to income subject to U.S. tax in the same manner that it was for most corporations.

Premiums Received by Controlled Foreign Corporations for Insurance or Reinsurance

Insurance premiums received were reported on Form 2952 as a transaction with four different categories of related persons (see "Related Persons of Controlled Foreign Corporations"). They were the amortized costs of a contract to reimburse the beneficiary in the event of a business loss.

Purchases of Tangible Property by Controlled Foreign Corporations

The purchases of tangible property (other than stock in trade) were reported on Form 2952 as a transaction with four different categories of related persons (see "Related Persons of Controlled Foreign Corporations"). They involved the transfer of fixed assets or other personal property from the U.S. parent corporation and other related U.S. entities to the Controlled Foreign Corporation. Transactions between foreign subsidiaries were not included in the data.

Related Persons of Controlled Foreign Corporations

Four categories of related persons of Controlled Foreign Corporations were shown on Form 2952 and transactions between them and Controlled Foreign Corporations are included in the tables in this report. They are the U.S. person (a corporation for purposes of this report) filing the return; any corporation controlled by the U.S. person (i.e., the U.S. parent corporation) filing the return; 10-percent-or-more U.S. shareholders of the Controlled Foreign Corporation (other than the controlling shareholder); and 10-percent-or-more U.S. shareholders of the U.S. corporation filing the return. The Form 2952 excluded transactions with foreign shareholders (other than foreign corporations controlled by the U.S. person filing the return) of the Controlled Foreign Corporation. "Any corporation controlled by the U.S. person filing the return" referred either to a U.S. or foreign corporation that was controlled by the U.S. parent corporation; corporations in this category could not be separately identified on the Form 2952 as being U.S. or foreign.

Rents Received by U.S. Corporations

Rents received for the use or occupancy of property consisted of the gross amounts. Depreciation, repairs, interest, taxes, and other expenses which were related to rents were not deducted directly from the rental income, but were reported among the various itemized business deductions from total receipts. For manufacturing, public utility, and service corporations which frequently leased, rather than sold, their products, the rental income so derived was included in "Business Receipts."

Royalties Received by U.S.Corporations

Royalties were payments received, generally on an agreed percentage basis, for the use of property. Included were amounts received from such properties as copyrights, patents, and trademarks; and from natural resources such as timber, mineral mines, and oil wells. The amount reported was the gross amount. Expenses relating to royalties, depletion or taxes, for example, were not deducted directly from the income, but were reported among the various itemized business deductions from total gross income.

Excluded were certain royalties received under a lease agreement on timber, coal deposits, and domestic iron ore deposits, which were allowed special tax treatment. Under elective provisions of Code section 631, the net gain or loss on such royalties was included in the computation of net gain or loss on sales or exchanges of certain business property under section 1231. If the overall result of this computation was a net gain, it was eligible for treatment as a long-term capital gain, taxable at the more favorable capital gains rate. If the overall result was a net loss, it was fully deductible in the current year as an ordinary noncapital loss.

Rents and Royalties Received (or Paid) by Controlled Foreign Corporations

Rents and royalties received or paid were reported on Form 2952 as a transaction with four different categories of related persons (see "Related Persons of Controlled Foreign Corporations"). Rents comprised compensation for the use of land, buildings, equipment, and other personal property.

Royalty receipts or payments generally represented compensation for the use of property based on an agreed portion of the income arising from such properties as copyrights, patents, and trademarks; and from natural resources such as timber, mineral mines, and oil wells.

Sales (or Purchases) of Property Rights by Controlled Foreign Corporations

Sales or purchases of property rights were reported on Form 2952 as a transaction with four different categories of related persons (see "Related Persons of Controlled Foreign Corporations"). They involved the sale or purchase of rights to patents, trademarks, secret formulas, goodwill, copyrights, and similar intangible property.

Unlike the sale or purchase of stock in trade in the ordinary course of business, the sale or purchase of property rights between the Controlled Foreign Corporation and another foreign subsidiary was reported. These transactions were shown on the Form 2952 under the column heading, "Any corporations controlled by the U.S. corporation filing return." However, since this heading also covered transactions between the foreign subsidiary and any U.S. subsidiary, the data on transactions between one foreign subsidiary and another could not be separately identified.

Sales (or Purchases) of Stock in Trade by Controlled Foreign Corporations

Sales or purchases of stock in trade (except in the ordinary course of business where neither party to the transaction was a U.S. person) were reported on Form 2952 as a transaction with four different categories of related persons (see "Related Persons of Controlled Foreign Corporations"). This item primarily covered the sales and purchases of merchandise in the ordinary course of a trade or business. License fees for distribution of personal property could also be included in this item. Transactions involving sales or purchases of stock in trade in the ordinary course of business between foreign subsidiaries were not included in the data.

Total Assets of Controlled Foreign Corporations

Data on total assets were obtained from the end-of-year balance sheets required to be filed with the Form 2952. The total assets of Controlled Foreign Corporations were net after the reduction for the reserves discussed above for total assets of U.S. corporations. Likewise, when the reserves were reported as liabilities, they were subtracted from the total assets figure reported.

In some instances, balance sheets were not filed or the U.S. corporation filed a consolidated balance sheet for all or some of its Controlled Foreign Corporations without providing enough information to obtain the total assets separately for each of the foreign corporations. Where the total assets figures were not obtained as a result of the field followup, discussed in Section 3, no attempt was made to estimate the foreign corporation's total assets as was done for U.S. corporations (see "Zero Assets").

Total Assets of U.S. Corporations

Total assets were those reported in the end-of-year balance sheet in the corporation's books of account. Total assets were net after reduction by accumulated depreciation, amortization, and depletion, and by the reserve for bad debts. When these reserves were reported as liabilities, they were treated as reductions from the asset accounts to which they were related and total assets were adjusted accordingly.

Asset estimates for the few returns of corporations that failed to provide balance sheet information were obtained from other schedules on the return form; from reference books; and from the relationships between income statement and balance sheet items on similar returns which had both statements and which were classified in the same industrial group (see also "Zero Assets").

Total Deductions of U.S. Corporations

As derived for the statistics, total deductions comprised (1) the ordinary and necessary business deductions from gross income, (2) the cost of sales and operations, and (3) net loss from sales of noncapital assets.

Total Receipts of U.S. Corporations

This computed amount was derived for the statistics as follows:

Included items--(1) Gross taxable receipts (before deduction of cost of sales and operations and net losses from sales of noncapital assets); (2) Nontaxable interest received from State and local Government obligations.

Excluded items—(1) Other nontaxable income recognized by the corporation; (2) Certain taxable income from related foreign corporations only constructively received.

Transactions of Controlled Foreign Corporations

Transactions of Controlled Foreign Corporations with four categories of related persons (see "Related Persons of Controlled Foreign Corporations") were taken from item 12, lines a-i, of Form 2952. The transactions included commissions, rents, royalties, dividends, and interest received from, or paid to, related persons of the Controlled Foreign Corporation. Also included were amounts borrowed or loaned; compensation received or paid for the rendition of technical, managerial, engineering, construction, scientific or similar services; sales or purchases of stock in trade (except in the ordinary course of business where neither party to the transaction was a U.S. person); and sales or purchases of property rights, such as patents, trademarks, or secret formulas. (Each of these transactions is described under a separate heading in this section.)

Premiums received from related persons for insurance or reinsurance did not have a corresponding payment-to-related-persons transaction and purchases of tangible property other than stock in trade (except where neither party to the transaction was a U.S. person) did not have a corresponding sales-to-related-persons transaction. Finally, some foreign corporations reported transactions which did not fall into these categories or which were not clearly labelled. All such transactions were grouped into receipts and payments "Not allocable," respectively. However, the "Not allocable" category accounted for a negligible amount of both total receipts and total payments.

The total transactions reported on the Form 2952 could not be used for balance of payments purposes because not all transactions were covered and also because they were limited to those between the Controlled Foreign Corporation and four categories of related persons. Consequently, they did not represent the total flow of funds between U.S. entities and foreign corporations.

In addition, transactions with "Any corporation controlled by the U.S. corporation filing return" could be with either a foreign or a U.S. subsidiary of the U.S. corporation; the two could not be distinguished on Form 2952.

It should also be noted that a U.S. corporation in reporting transactions of a Controlled Foreign Corporation with a U.S. subsidiary included in its consolidated return, may have reported the transactions on the Form 2952 in either the column "U.S. corporation filing the return" or "Any corporation controlled by the U.S. corporation filing return." However, in most instances, all transactions of an affiliated group filing a consolidated return were considered to be with the U.S. parent corporation and were reported in this manner on the Form 2952.

For the 1972 statistics, if the taxpayer reported a negative amount for a transaction (other than amounts borrowed or loaned, dividends received or paid, insurance premiums received, and purchases of tangible property), the negative amount was made positive and placed in the corresponding receipt or payment transaction. For example, a negative amount reported in rents and royalties received was made positive and placed in rents and royalties paid. If a negative amount was reported in one of those excluded transactions mentioned above, it was not altered. There was no clear explanation for a taxpayer's reporting a negative transaction, but to simplify processing the switch was made. However, for the 1968 statistics, negative amounts reported by the taxpayer for any of the transactions were used as reported.

U.S. Income Tax Before Credits

U.S. income tax before credits was the gross amount of income tax liability before deducting the foreign tax, investment, and, beginning with tax year 1972, work incentive (WIN) credits.

The basic income tax for most corporations consisted of:

(1) a normal tax of 22 percent on total taxable income plus a surtax of 26 percent on total taxable income in excess of $25,000; or

(2) an alternative tax, whereby the excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss was taxed at a special capital gains rate while the balance of income was taxed at the normal tax and surtax rates. The alternative capital gains rate increased, in general, from 25 percent for 1968 and 1969, to 28 percent for 1970, and to 30 percent for 1971 and thereafter. Corporations with accounting periods overlapping either 1969 or 1971 were required to prorate their capital gains tax at the different rates.

Effective January 1968 through December 1969, the combined normal tax and surtax rate of 48 percent was augmented by a surcharge equal to 10 percent of the combined rate so that the total tax rate including surcharge was equal to 52.8 percent. From January 1970 through June 1970, the surcharge was reduced to 5 percent and finally discontinued after June 1970.

In addition to the preceding, the statistics for income tax also included:

(1) an additional tax for "tax preferences" (or "minimum tax"), effective for taxable years ended after 1969,

(2) the tax from recomputing a prior-year investment credit,

(3) the 30 percent tax on certain long-term capital gains of Small Business Corporations electing to be taxed through their stockholders, and

(4) the 30 percent tax on undistributed net long-term capital gains of regulated investment companies and real estate investment trusts.

Statistics for income tax do not reflect the Personal Holding Company tax nor do they reflect any adjustments to the tax liability such as those resulting from:

(1) recomputation of taxable income to reflect the carryback of net operating losses and certain capital losses of future years,

(2) reduction of income tax by work incentive (WIN), investment, and foreign tax credits recomputed to take account of the carryback of unused investment credit and foreign taxes of certain future years,

(3) audit examinations and other enforcement activities, and

(4) uncollectible taxes.

The statistics, therefore, differ somewhat from the actual income tax collections and the final income tax liability of corporations for Tax Years 1968 and 1972, the two years covered by this report.

Western Hemisphere Trade Corporation Deduction

This special deduction was allowed certain U.S. corporations which qualified under section 921 of the Code. To qualify for the deduction, a U.S. corporation must have: (1) conducted all of its business, other than incidental purchases, in the Western Hemisphere (including the United States); (2) derived at least 95 percent of its gross income from sources outside the United States during the 3-year period ending with its current taxable year; and (3) derived at least 90 percent of its gross income from the active conduct of a trade or business during the same 3-year period. Because the Western Hemisphere Trade Corporation deduction was in addition to the ordinary and necessary business deductions allowed under the Code, it is not reflected in net income and, instead, is treated for the statistics as a deduction from net income in arriving at the tax base, income subject to U.S. tax.

The deduction was allowed under Code section 922. It was equal to taxable income (computed without regard to the deduction, i.e., net income minus the statutory special deductions for "net operating losses of prior years," intercorporate dividends received, and dividends paid on certain public utility stock) multiplied by a fraction having a numerator of 14 percent and a denominator equal to the combined U.S. normal tax rate and surtax rate.

For 1968, the combined U.S. normal tax and surtax rate of 48 percent was augmented by a surcharge equal to 10 percent of the combined rate making the corporate tax rate including surcharge equal to 52.8 percent. For 1968, therefore, the Western Hemisphere Trade Corporation deduction fraction equalled 14/52.8 or 26.5 percent.

For 1972, the combined normal tax and surtax rate was 48 percent (the surcharge was discontinued after June 1970) and the Western Hemisphere Trade Corporation deduction fraction equalled 14/48 or 29.2 percent. Thus, taxable income computed for Western Hemisphere Trade Corporations was about 29 percent less than the taxable income computed for other U.S. corporations. As a result, Western Hemisphere Trade Corporations were able to lower their effective tax rate from 48 to 34 percent, a reduction of 14 percentage points. This 14 percentage point reduction was applicable to any year regardless of the statutory tax rate. Because of this reduction, corporations that filed consolidated returns and which took both the Western Hemisphere Trade Corporation deduction and the foreign tax credit (using the overall limitation method) were subject to an additional restriction in taking the foreign tax credit according to Code section 1503(b) (see "Foreign Tax Credit Claimed").

Zero Assets

Returns of U.S. corporations with zero assets comprised: (1) final returns of liquidating or dissolving corporations which had disposed of all assets; (2) final returns of merging corporations whose assets and liabilities were reported in the returns of the acquiring corporations; (3) part-year returns of corporations which changed accounting periods, and whose assets and liabilities were also repeated on their first full-year returns; and (4) for 1972 only, returns of Domestic International Sales Corporations (DISC's) that did not provide balance sheet information.

For Controlled Foreign Corporations, this category was expanded to include foreign corporations with assets not reported. These included foreign corporations whose Forms 2952 showed zero assets but provided no indication of liquidation or merger as well as foreign corporations for which balance sheet data were not provided (see "Total Assets of Controlled Foreign Corporations").

SAMPLE CRITERIA AND SELECTION OF RETURNS

Data in this report are estimates derived from returns of U.S. corporations that included one or more Forms 2952, Information Return with Respect to Controlled Foreign Corporations. These returns of U.S. corporations were included in the stratified probability samples used for Statistics of Income--Corporation Income Tax Returns for 1968 and 1972, respectively. These samples were selected before audit and were stratified based, for the most part, on combinations of size of total assets and of net income or deficit. For the two Income Years, 1968 and 1972, covered by this report, the total number of returns with one or more Forms 2952 was less than 1 percent of all corporation returns and less than 3 percent of the returns included in the Statistics of Income samples.

Returns sampled at the 100-percent rate accounted for the largest part of the estimated dollar amounts reported on corporation returns, although they were a relatively small proportion of the total number of returns filed. For returns used for this report, those sampled at the 100-percent rate accounted for an even larger part of the estimated dollar amounts and a large, although smaller, proportion of the estimated total number of returns.

The total corporation population from which the samples were drawn included the following types of returns:

(1) Form 1120--U.S. Corporation Income Tax Return,

(2) Form 1120L--U.S. Life Insurance Company Income Tax Return,

(3) Form 1120M--U.S. Mutual Insurance Company Income Tax Return,

(4) Form 1120S--U.S. Small Business Corporation Income Tax Return,

(5) Form 1120F--U.S. Income Tax Return of Foreign Corporation (not applicable to the statistics in this report), and

(6) Form 1120-DISC--Domestic International Sales Corporation Return (first effective beginning with Tax Year 1972).

Returns not included in the corporate population were, for the most part, those in the Form 990 series filed by nonprofit and, therefore, tax-exempt corporations.

Delinquent returns for prior years processed for revenue purposes during the same period as timely-filed returns for 1968 and 1972, were included in the sample for these two income years to compensate for the returns for 1968 and 1972 filed late, after the cut-off date for sample receipts.

Sample rates ranged from 1 to 100 percent depending on the type of return, size of total assets, and size of net income or deficit. For the most part, the sample criteria and selection of returns for both of the years covered were similar. (For a detailed discussion of the sample and its selection see Statistics of Income--Corporation Income Tax Returns for each of the years involved.)

The criteria for sampling returns at the 100-percent rate were virtually the same for 1968 and 1972. In general, the 100-percent category comprised the following types of returns: (1) all Form 1120 returns with total assets of $10 million or more or net income or deficit of $1 million or more, (2) all Form 1120S returns with total assets of $1 million or more or net income or deficit of $500,000 or more, and (3) all Forms 1120L, 1120M, 1120F and 1120-DISC returns, regardless of the size of total assets or net income.

An income year was defined in terms of accounting periods. A given year included returns with accounting periods ended during the span of months, July of one calendar year through June of the following calendar year. Returns were sampled when they were received without regard to their accounting periods. Separation of the returns into the appropriate income year based on accounting periods was accomplished during statistical processing. Sampling rates were generally set for the calendar year in which returns were received without regard to the accounting period. Therefore, if the rate was changed from one calendar year to the next for a particular sample class, that class would have more than one sampling rate for a given income year.

In processing the data for the statistics in this report, a separate record was abstracted for each Controlled Foreign Corporation as reported on Forms 2952 filed with the U.S. corporation's tax return. Tabulation of these records, using the weights given to the U.S. corporation return with which they were associated (see "Method of Estimation" below), provided the estimated number of Forms 2952, as shown in table F.

Table F shows that the number of Forms 2952 in the sample had an effective weighting factor less than the effective weighting factor of the sample returns with which they were associated. This occurred because, although each Form 2952 record was given the same weight as its related sample return, the sample returns with a weight of one generated more of these records than the sample returns with a weight greater than one. As already mentioned, returns with a weight of one represented the larger corporations, which accounted for most of the foreign operations of U.S. corporations.

The impact of large corporations on the statistics may be illustrated by the following facts from table F: for 1972, the weighted total number of Forms 2952 (29,221) was only about 8 percent greater than the number of unweighted Forms 2952 shown on returns in the sample (26,968), although the weighted number of returns with Forms 2952 (4,388) was almost 50 percent greater than the unweighted number of sample returns with Forms 2952 (2,963).

METHOD OF ESTIMATION

For 1972, the totals for the number of returns filed were the result of computer tabulation of all the returns processed in each of the Internal Revenue service centers. For 1968, totals for returns filed were based on manual counts made and submitted by each Internal Revenue district office and service center. For each of the years, a comparison was made between the expected and realized number of sample returns in each location to make sure the sample plan was working.

Sample data were weighted to the sample class totals by multiplying them by the quotient (or weighting factor):

$$\frac{\text{Number of returns filed per sample class}}{\text{Number of sample returns per sample class}}$$

SAMPLING VARIABILITY

Since the data in this report were derived from a probability sample of tax returns, they may differ from similar data obtained from a complete count or census because of the variability inherent in sampling. The tables were produced as a separate study especially for this report although, as already noted, they were based on returns included in the same sample used for the regular Statistics of Income program.

Because of the impact of returns sampled at the 100-percent rate, sampling variability was not considered to be a major limitation of the data. Therefore, the statistics in the tables were not reviewed for this purpose.

The importance of the sample returns selected at a 100-percent rate in these tables is illustrated by the following:

(1) For 1968, about 85 percent of the returns included in the sample were in the sample classes for which returns were selected at the 100-percent rate; and about 97 percent of the total number of Form 2952 records in the sample were associated with returns selected at the 100-percent rate.

(2) For 1972, about 87 percent of the returns included in the sample were in sample classes for which returns were selected at the 100-percent rate; and about 97 percent of the total number of Form 2952 records in the sample were associated with returns selected at the 100-percent rate.

A comparison of items from returns sampled at the 100-percent rate with population estimates of these items provides a further illustration of the extent of sampling at the 100-percent rate. The resulting impact on the data is shown in table G.

In tables throughout this report, a dash in place of a frequency or amount indicates that: (1) if returns were sampled at a rate of 100 percent, no returns had the particular characteristic; or (2) if returns were sampled at a rate less than 100 percent, either no returns in the population had the characteristic or the characteristic was so rare that it did not appear on any sample returns.

SAMPLE MANAGEMENT AND PROCESSING CONTROLS

Sample and population counts of corporation returns were normally free from error. Sample counts were verified during statistical processing to minimize loss of data. Because of their impact on the statistics, inclusion of returns of the largest corporations was verified by controlling these companies on a name basis.

In transcribing and tabulating the information from the returns in the sample, additional checks were imposed to improve the quality of the resulting estimates. Whenever possible, incorrect or missing entries were corrected during statistical editing to make them consistent with other entries on the return or accompanying schedules. When Forms 2952 had incomplete or missing information, it was possible, in some instances, to complete or estimate the data based on logical relationships among items on both the Form 2952 itself and on the corporation income tax return and other forms and schedules filed with it.

Quality of the data abstracted at the processing centers was controlled by means of a continuous subsampling verification system. Prior to tabulation, numerous computer tests were applied to each statistical record to assure that proper balance and relationship between data items were maintained. Inconsistencies which could not be readily resolved, especially those that involved returns of the larger corporations, were referred to the Statistics Division in the National Office for resolution. In addition, with respect to Forms 2952, when data were incomplete or there were data inconsistencies which could not be resolved, a selective field followup of large returns was conducted to obtain additional information. In general, the followup was limited to Forms 2952 which showed total assets of $1 million or more or which were filed by U.S. corporations with total assets of $250 million or more.

Finally, prior to publication all statistics and tables were reviewed for accuracy and reasonableness in light of provisions of tax laws, taxpayer reporting variations and limitations, economic conditions, comparability with other statistical series and with prior years' data, and statistical techniques used in data processing.

However, the controls maintained over the selection of the sample returns, the processing of the source data, and the review of the statistics did not completely eliminate the possibility of error. Also, practical operating considerations necessitated allowance of reasonable tolerances in the statistical processing of the data.

1968 Instructions for Form 1120 U.S. Corporation Income Tax Return

(References are to the Internal Revenue Code.)

Some Notes About Your U.S. Corporation Income Tax Return

Use of the Preaddressed Form and Mailing Label

To provide efficient and economical service to the public, the Internal Revenue Service uses an automatic system to process data from millions of Federal tax returns filed yearly. This Automatic Data Processing System requires the use of specific information and uniformity in reporting. For instance, the name, address, and identifying number you use on your return must appear exactly as recorded on our Business Master File. Otherwise, there may be delays in processing your return.

That's why we urge you to use the preaddressed tax form we mailed you, and ask that you follow the instructions explicitly when preparing your return.

If your preaddressed form becomes unusable, remove the top part of your address label (the adhesive used permits this) and attach it to the form you file.

If for any reason you cannot use the preaddressed label, then print your name, address, and identifying number on the form you file, exactly as shown on the label. You should be extremely careful not to drop or add "letters" or words which are a part of your true name. (Ampersands (&) and hyphens (-) are considered to be "letters.") Such additions or deletions will cause a mismatch in the Master File. (For example: "ABC Corporation" cannot appear variously as "A-B-C Corporation" or "AB&C Corporation.")

If the preaddressed label is incorrect, please cross out the incorrect parts and enter the correct information.

Filling in the Form

If you have an item of income or a deduction for which a line is provided on page 1 of the form, please enter it on that line even though you also enter it on an attachment.

Please do not alter, substitute, or cross out the line titles printed on the form.

Where to File

Corporations in most states are now required to mail their returns directly to a specified Internal Revenue Service Center, instead of to a District Director's office. (See General Instruction C—Where to File.)

Depositary Method of Payment

All corporation income and estimated income tax payments must be deposited in a Federal Reserve bank or an authorized commercial bank depositary. A Form 503 (Federal Tax Deposit, Corporation Income Taxes) must accompany each deposit. (See General Instruction G—Deposit of Tax.)

F. Period to be covered by return.—Returns shall be filed for the calendar year 1968 or fiscal year beginning in 1968 and ending in 1969. If the return is for other than a calendar year, fill in the taxable year space at the top of the form.

FINAL RETURNS.—If the corporation ceases to exist, write "FINAL RETURN" at the top of the form. If the corporation liquidates within one calendar month pursuant to section 333, attach a computation (following the format in Revenue Procedure 65–10, C.B. 1965–1, 738) of accumulated earnings and profits including all items of income and expense accrued up to the date on which the transfer of all property is completed.

G. Deposit of tax.—The balance of tax due must be paid in full when the return is filed or in two installments, 50 percent by the 15th day of the 3d month and 50 percent by the 15th day of the 6th month following the close of the taxable year.

Corporations must deposit all income tax payments with an authorized commercial bank depositary or Federal Reserve bank, and all deposits must be accompanied by a Federal Tax Deposit Form 503. Please enter the serial number of Form 503 on your remittance. Do not remit directly to Internal Revenue Service. All deposits made for the year should be listed in Schedule K.

Timeliness of deposits will be determined by the date the deposit was received by the commercial bank depositary or Federal Reserve bank. However, a deposit received after the due date will be considered timely if the corporation establishes that it was mailed on or before the second day before the prescribed due date.

A supply of Forms 503 will be mailed to corporations on a cyclical basis depending on the taxable year of the corporation. Corporations needing Forms 503 may obtain them only by applying to the Director of a service center (or District Director). The application should include the corporation's name, identification number, address, and the taxable year to which the deposits relate.

Corporations which surrender Treasury bills to Federal Reserve banks in payment of corporation income or estimated income taxes must submit with the securities a Form 503 on which the face amount of the bills has been entered in the space provided for the amount of the deposit. The Federal Reserve bank will acknowledge receipt of the bills and will effect the deposit on the date the taxes become due. Corporations should not submit with their tax returns the receipts for Treasury bills surrendered to Federal Reserve banks.

H. Accounting period.—To change your accounting period, see section 1.442–1 of the regulations and Form 1128, Application for Change in Accounting Period.

I. Accounting methods. — Taxable income must be computed using the method of accounting regularly used in maintaining the corporation's books and records. In all cases the method adopted must clearly reflect taxable income. (See section 446.)

Unless the law specifically permits, a taxpayer may not change the method of accounting used to report income in prior years (for income as a whole or for any material item) without first securing consent on Form 3115, Application for Change in Accounting Method.

Rounding off to whole-dollar amounts.—The money items on your return and accompanying schedules may be shown as whole-dollar amounts by eliminating any amount less than 50 cents and increasing any amount from 50 cents through 99 cents to the next higher dollar.

J. Estimated tax. — Corporations which can expect their "estimated tax" to be $40 or more must make estimated tax payments. "Estimated tax" is the amount of the corporation's expected income tax (after credits) less an exemption from estimated tax. (In general, after taking the exemption into account, a tax liability of $5600 or more will result in estimated tax of $40 or more.)

For taxable years beginning in 1969, the exemption is the sum of $5500 and an amount which is 60% of the difference between the tax liability (not to exceed $100,000) and $5500. (For taxable years beginning in 1970 the 60% will drop to 40%.)

Members of a controlled group of corporations which must share one $25,000 surtax exemption among all members must substitute 22% of their share of the surtax exemption for the above-mentioned $5500.

Form 1120–W may be used as a worksheet to compute corporate estimated tax.

If you have an underpayment of estimated tax and believe an additional charge should not be asserted, attach Form 2220 to your return.

A corporation which has overpaid its estimated tax may apply for a "quick refund" of the overpayment if it is (1) at least 10% of the corporation's expected income tax liability AND (2) $500 or more. Use Form 4466.

K. Consolidated returns.—The parent corporation must attach Form 851, Affiliations Schedule, to the consolidated return. For the first year a consolidated return is filed, each subsidiary must attach a Form 1122.

Supporting schedules in columnar form must be filed for each corporation included in the consolidated return showing, both before and after adjustments, the items of gross income and deductions, a computation of taxable income, balance sheets as of the beginning and end of the taxable year, and a reconciliation of retained earnings. In addition, attach consolidated balance sheets and a reconciliation of consolidated retained earnings.

L. Stock ownership in foreign corporations.—If you owned 5 percent or more in value of the outstanding stock of a foreign personal holding company, attach statement required by section 551(d).

If you control a foreign corporation or were a 10 percent or more shareholder of a controlled foreign corporation, you may be required to file Forms 2952 and 3646.

M. Financial statements.—The balance sheets must agree with your books and records or any differences must be reconciled. Copies of balance sheets required by Federal, State, etc., authorities may be used in place of Schedule L. Certificates of deposit should be included as cash on line 1 of the balance sheet.

Banks, insurance companies, and other corporations required to submit substantially similar statements of income and expense to any Federal, State, etc., authority may submit copies of such statements in place of the information required on lines 1 through 30, page 1. Railroads may substitute Form 1090. In such cases taxable income must be reconciled in Schedule M–1 with the net profit shown on the statement and entered as line 30, page 1.

N. Attachments.—Attachments may be used if the lines on the form schedules are not sufficient. They must contain all the required information and follow the format of the schedules on the return. If an attachment is used in place of a schedule having a summary line on page 1, the total need not be entered on the schedule but must be entered on page 1.

Your name and identifying number should be entered on all attachments exactly as shown on your preaddressed form.

O. Unincorporated business enterprises which elected under section 1361 to be taxed as a domestic corporation.—All elections were automatically terminated on January 1, 1969, and unincorporated business enterprises are not considered as domestic corporations for any period after December 31, 1968.

P. Tax on improperly accumulated earnings.—In order to prevent accumulation of earnings and profits for the purpose of enabling shareholders to avoid the tax on individuals, section 531 provides an additional tax upon the accumulated taxable income of corporations formed or availed of for the purpose of such tax avoidance.

Q. Signature.—The return must be signed either by the president, vice president, treasurer, assistant treasurer, chief accounting officer, or by any other corporate officer (such as tax officer) who is authorized to sign. A receiver, trustee, or assignee must sign any return which he is required to file on behalf of a corporation.

R. Total assets.—If there are no assets at the end of the taxable year, show the total assets as of the beginning of the taxable year.

SPECIFIC INSTRUCTIONS (Numbered to correspond with the line numbers on page 1)

1. Gross receipts.—Enter gross receipts or sales from all business operations except those required to be reported in lines 4 through 10.

If you use the installment method of reporting, enter on line 1 the gross profit on collections from installment sales and carry the same amount to line 3. Attach a schedule showing for the current and 3 preceding years: (a) Gross sales, (b) cost of goods sold, (c) gross profits, (d) percentage of gross profits to gross sales, (e) amount collected, and (f) gross profit on amount collected.

2. Cost of goods sold.—Once an inventory method is adopted it may not be changed without permission. Application for permission to change must be made on Form 3115 within 90 days after the beginning of the taxable year in which it is desired to make the change.

A corporation electing to use the last-in, first-out method of valuing inventory provided in section 472 must file Form 970 with its return for the first year of the election. Thereafter, attach a schedule showing (1) a summary of all inventories and (2) with respect to any inventories computed under section 472, the computation of the quantities and cost by acquisition levels.

Cost of operations (where inventories are not an income-determining factor).—If the amount entered on line 2 includes an amount applicable to cost of operations, attach a schedule showing (1) salaries and wages and (2) other costs in detail.

4. Dividends.—(Numbered to correspond with line numbers in Schedule C.)

1. Enter dividends received from domestic corporations subject to income tax, and which are subject to the 85-percent deduction under section 243(a)(1).

Small business investment companies enter dividends received from domestic corporations subject to income tax even though a deduction is allowed for the entire amount of such dividends in line 1 of Schedule I. For dividends received from a regulated investment company, see section 854 for the amount subject to the 85-percent deduction.

So called dividends or earnings received from mutual savings banks, etc., are in fact interest and should not be treated as dividends.

2. Enter dividends received on the preferred stock of a public utility which is subject to income tax and which is allowed the deduction provided in section 247 for dividends paid.

3. Enter dividends received from foreign corporations and which qualify for the 85-percent deduction provided in section 245(a).

4. Enter dividends received from wholly-owned foreign subsidiaries and which are eligible for the 100-percent deduction provided in section 245(b). In general, this deduction applies to dividends paid out of the earnings and profits of a foreign corporation for a taxable year during which (1) all of its outstanding stock is owned (directly or indirectly) by the domestic corporation receiving such dividends and (2) all of its gross income from all sources is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States.

The 100-percent deduction does not apply to any dividends if an election under section 1562 (election of multiple surtax exemptions by a controlled group of corporations) is effective for either (1) the taxable year of the domestic corporation in which such dividends are received, or (2) the taxable year of the foreign corporation out of the earnings and profits of which such dividends are paid.

5. Enter foreign dividends (including minimum distributions under subpart F) which are not reportable on lines 3 and 4. Distributions of amounts constructively taxed in the current year or in prior years under subpart F should be excluded.

7. Include gross up attributable to income under subpart F.

8. Enter only those dividends subject to the elective provisions of section 243(b).

9. Include dividends (other than capital gain dividends) received from regulated investment companies and which are not subject to the 85-percent deduction; dividends from tax-exempt organizations; dividends (other than capital gain dividends) received from a real estate investment trust which, for the taxable year of the trust in which the dividends are paid, qualifies under sections 856–858; dividends not eligible for a dividends-received deduction because of the holding period of the stock or an obligation to make corresponding payments with respect to similar stock; and any other taxable dividend income not properly reported above.

6. Other interest.—Enter interest on loans, notes, mortgages, bonds, bank deposits, corporate bonds, tax refunds, etc.

The term "corporate bonds" includes bonds, debentures, notes, certificates of indebtedness or other evidences of indebtedness issued by any corporation and bearing interest, with interest coupons or in registered form.

Do not offset interest income against interest expense.

7. Gross rents.—Enter the gross amount received for the rent of property. Any expenses, including repairs, interest, taxes, and depreciation should be included in the proper lines for deductions.

9. Gains and losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets and other property.—Every sale or exchange of property, even though no gain or loss is indicated, must be reported in Schedule D.

If the net long-term capital gain exceeds the net short-term capital loss, or in case of only a net long-term capital gain, a computation of the alternative tax should be made on separate Schedule D.

10. Other income.—Include recoveries of bad debts deducted in prior years under the specific charge-off method. Refunds of taxes deducted in prior years should be reported here and not offset against current year's taxes.

If "other income" consists of only one item you may identify it by showing the account caption in parentheses on line 10.

12. Compensation of officers.—Column 8 of Schedule E must be completed for your 25 highest paid officers. To determine the highest paid officers, all allowances including expense account allowances must be added to each officer's compensation. Column 8 need not be completed for any officer for which the combined amount is less than $10,000.

This information is to be submitted by each member of an affiliated group included in a consolidated return.

For this purpose an officer is a person who is elected or appointed to office or who is designated as such in the corporation's charter or bylaws such as regular officer, chairman of the board, etc.

14. Repairs.—Enter the cost of incidental repairs, including labor, supplies, and other items, which do not add to the value or appreciably prolong the life of the property.

15. Bad debts.—Bad debts may be treated in either of two ways—(1) as a deduction for debts which become worthless in whole or in part, or (2) as a deduction for a reasonable addition to a reserve for bad debts. (Section 166.)

Application for permission to change the method of computing bad debts must be made on Form 3115 within 90 days after the beginning of the taxable year for which it is desired to make the change.

17. Taxes.—Enter taxes paid or accrued during the taxable year and attach a schedule showing the type and amount of tax. Do not include Federal income, estate, inheritance, legacy, succession, or gift taxes; foreign or United States possession income taxes if a foreign tax credit is claimed; Federal taxes paid on bonds containing a tax-free covenant, or taxes not imposed upon the taxpayer. See section 164(d) regarding apportionment of taxes on real property between seller and purchaser.

18. Interest.—Enter business interest but do not include interest on indebtedness incurred or continued to purchase or carry obligations the interest on which is wholly exempt from income tax. (Section 265.)

Mutual savings banks, building and loan associations, and cooperative banks, enter amounts paid or credited to the accounts of depositors as dividends, interest, or earnings.

See section 267 for limitation on deductions for unpaid expenses and interest in the case of transactions between related taxpayers.

19. Contributions.—Enter contributions or gifts actually paid within the taxable year to or for the use of charitable and governmental organizations described in section 170(c).

Corporations on the accrual basis may elect to deduct contributions paid on or before the 15th day of the 3d month following the close of the taxable year if the contributions are authorized by the board of directors during the taxable year. A declaration, signed by an officer, must be attached to the return stating that the resolution authorizing the contributions was adopted by the board of directors.

The amount claimed may not exceed 5 percent of taxable income computed without regard to (1) this deduction, (2) the "special deductions" in line 29(b), and (3) any net operating loss carryback to the taxable year under section 172.

Do not deduct as a business expense charitable contributions that exceed the 5-percent limitation.

Charitable contributions paid during the taxable year in excess of the 5-percent limitation may be carried over to the five succeeding taxable years.

Attach a schedule showing the name of each organization and the amount paid. If a contribution is made in property other than money, state the kind of property contributed and the method used in determining its fair market value. If a contribution carryover is included, show the amount and how the carryover was determined.

Special rule for contributions of certain property.—The amount of a contribution of property must be reduced by any gain that would have resulted from the application of section 617(d)(1), 1245(a), or 1250(a) if the property were sold at its fair market value.

20. Casualty or theft losses.—Enter losses sustained during the year arising from fire, storm, shipwreck, or other casualty. To determine the amount deductible, see section 165(b). Theft losses are deductible only in the year in which discovered.

21. Amortization.—If a deduction is claimed for amortization, attach a schedule showing: (1) A description of the expenditures being amortized; (2) date acquired, completed, or expended; (3) amount being amortized; (4) amortization deducted in prior years; (5) amortization period (number of months); (6) amortization for this year; and (7) the total amount of amortization less the amount claimed in Schedule A and elsewhere on the return.

22. Depreciation.—See instructions for Schedule G.

23. Depletion.—Attach Form T if a deduction is claimed for depletion of timber.

Expenditures to be deferred and deducted ratably under the election provided in sections 616(b), relating to certain expenditures in the development of mines, and 615(b), relating to deductions for mine exploration, are not to be taken into account in determining the adjusted basis for property for the purpose of computing a deduction for depletion under section 611.

25(b). Other employee benefit plans.—Enter deductions for contributions to employee benefit plans other than those claimed on line 25(a), such as insurance, health, or welfare plans. Attach a schedule for each plan showing: (1) nature of benefits, i.e., group-term life insurance, group permanent life insurance, non-insured death benefit, hospitalization, surgical, medical, sickness, accident, major medical expense, unemployment benefit, or other welfare benefits; (2) method of financing, i.e., insured, industry or areawide fund, self-insured fund, or direct benefit payments; (3) amount of deduction; (4) amount of employee contributions; (5) number of employees covered; and (6) if a self-insured plan, the amount of benefits paid during the taxable year.

Also show the number of employees employed by the corporation.

26. Other deductions.—No deduction is allowable for any amount allocable to a class of exempt income other than exempt interest income. Items directly attributable to wholly exempt income shall be allocated thereto, and items directly attributable to any class of taxable income shall be allocated to such taxable income.

If an item is indirectly attributable both to taxable income and exempt income, a reasonable proportion thereof, determined in the light of all the facts and circumstances in each case, shall be allocated to each.

Attach a statement showing (1) the amount of each class of exempt income and (2) the amount of expense items allocated to each such class (the amount allocated by apportionment being shown separately).

29(a). Net operating loss deduction.—The "net operating loss deduction" is the sum of the net operating loss carryovers and carrybacks to the taxable year. (Section 172(a).) Generally, a net operating loss may be carried back 3 years and carried over 5 years. The net operating loss must first be carried to the earliest of the 8 taxable years to which it may be carried, then to the next earliest year, etc. The portion of such loss which may be carried to each of the other 7 taxable years is the excess, if any, of such loss over the sum of the taxable income for each of the prior taxable years to which the loss may be carried. (Section 172(b).)

The term "net operating loss" means the excess of allowable deductions over gross income, computed with the following modifications under section 172(d):

(1) No net operating loss deduction is allowed.

(2) The special deduction provided in section 922 (Western Hemisphere trade corporations) is not allowed.

(3) The special deductions in line 1 of Schedule I are computed without regard to the 85-percent limitation provided in section 246(b). See section 1.172–2 of the regulations.

(4) The special deduction allowed by section 247 (dividends paid on certain preferred stock of public utilities) is computed without regard to the provisions of section 247(a)(1)(B).

As stated, the net operating loss deduction is the sum of the carryovers and carrybacks. However, the following modifications must be taken into account in determining the taxable income which must be subtracted from a net operating loss to determine the portion of such loss which will still be available to carry to a subsequent year:

(a) The special deduction provided in section 922 (Western Hemisphere trade corporations) is not allowed.

(b) The net operating loss deduction is determined without regard to the net operating loss for the loss year or any taxable year thereafter, and under certain circumstances, without regard to any portion of a net operating loss attributable to a foreign expropriation loss.

If you have a net operating loss carryback and desire a "quick refund" of taxes, file Form 1139 within 12 months after the close of the taxable year in which the net operating loss is sustained. (Section 6411.)

If a net operating loss carryback creates an unused investment credit in a preceding year, the unused credit may be carried back to the 3 preceding years, and, under the provisions of section 6411, a quick refund of the taxes affected may be obtained by filing Form 1139.

29(b). Special deductions.—See Instructions for Schedule I.

SCHEDULE G—DEPRECIATION

If a deduction is claimed for depreciation of property, leasehold improvements, patents, or copyrights, fill in Schedule G.

Salvage value must be taken into account in determining the depreciation deduction (except under the declining balance method) for real property; and for personal property to the extent it exceeds 10 percent of the cost or other basis of the property.

(a) Alternative depreciation guidelines and rules.—Revenue Procedure 62–21 (supplemented by Revenue Procedure 65–13) sets forth alternative standards and procedures for determining depreciation. Taxpayers who wish to use these provisions must use them for all assets in a particular guideline class.

(b) Depreciation methods.—Depreciation may be computed using the methods set forth in section 167(b). Property, whether new or used, may be depreciated under the straight line method or the declining balance method at a rate not to exceed 1½ times the applicable straight line rate.

New tangible property with a useful life of 3 years or more may also be depreciated under (1) the double declining balance method, (2) the sum of the years-digits method, and (3) any other method which does not result in accumulated allowances at the end of any year (during the first two-thirds useful life of the property) greater than the total which could have been deducted if the double declining balance method had been used.

(c) Real property—Suspension period property.—In general, in the case of certain real property whose construction, reconstruction, or erection was completed during the taxable year but which (1) began during the period beginning on October 10, 1966, and ending on March 9, 1967, or (2) began, pursuant to an order placed during such period, before May 24, 1967, the methods described in the preceding paragraph for new property apply only to that portion of the basis attributable to work done after May 23, 1967. For provisions relating to exceptions and $50,000 exemption, see section 167(l).

(d) Section 179—Additional first-year depreciation allowance.—For the first year a depreciation deduction is allowable, corporations may elect to write off 20 percent of the cost (before adjustment for salvage value) of tangible personal property (whether new or used) with a useful life of 6 years or more, up to an aggregate cost of $10,000.

Total additional first-year depreciation must be shown on line 1 of the depreciation schedule.

If the additional first-year allowance is elected, the basis of the property must be reduced by the amount of the deduction and salvage value when computing ordinary depreciation.

SCHEDULE I—SPECIAL DEDUCTIONS

(Numbered to correspond with line numbers in Schedule I)

1. A small business investment company operating under the Small Business Investment Act of 1958 may deduct 100 percent of dividends received from domestic corporations subject to income tax. (Section 243(a)(2).)

In general, no dividends-received deduction will be allowed on any share of stock (a) which is disposed of if the corporation has held such share for 15 days or less, or (b) to the extent the corporation is under an obligation to make corresponding payments with respect to substantially identical stock or securities.

2. Limitation on dividends-received deduction.—In a year in which a net operating loss occurs, sections 172(d) and 246(b) provide that the 85-percent limitation on the amount of these special deductions does not apply even if the loss is created by the dividends-received deduction. In the case of a small business investment company, the dividends-received deduction of 100 percent included in line 2 is not subject to the overall 85-percent limitation.

4. Deduction for dividends paid on certain preferred stock of public utilities.—Section 247 allows public utilities a deduction of a certain percentage of the lesser of (1) dividends paid on its preferred stock during the taxable year, or (2) taxable income computed without regard to this deduction. For taxable years beginning in 1968 and ending on or before June 30, 1969, this percentage is 26.515 percent. For taxable years ending after such date, see instruction 6. In a year in which a net operating loss occurs, section 172(d) provides that the deduction shall be computed without regard to section 247(a)(1)(B).

5. Deduction for Western Hemisphere trade corporations.—Section 922 allows Western Hemisphere trade corporations a deduction of a certain percentage of taxable income computed without regard to this deduction. For taxable years beginning in 1968 and ending on or before June 30, 1969, this percentage is 26.515 percent. For taxable years ending after such date, see instruction 6.

6. Taxable years ending after June 30, 1969.—The deductions on line 1(b)—dividends received on certain preferred stock of public utilities, line 4—dividends paid on certain preferred stock of public utilities, and line 5—deduction for Western Hemisphere trade corporations, are computed using a formula which includes a fraction, the denominator of which is the sum of the normal tax and surtax rates. The denominator must be increased to reflect the 10-percent surcharge. For example, the denominator for calendar year 1968 corporations is 52.8 (48, the sum of normal tax and surtax rates, plus 10% of 48).

For taxable years ending after June 30, 1969 (the expiration date of the surcharge) the denominator must be increased to reflect the applicable surcharge rate shown in Schedule J instructions below.

SCHEDULE J—TAX COMPUTATION

1. Tax Surcharge.—The 10% tax surcharge for corporations is effective January 1, 1968. Since it is to expire June 30, 1969, corporations with taxable years ending after that date must prorate the 10% rate on the basis of the number of days in their taxable year during which the surcharge was in effect. (That is, the number of days before July 1, 1969.)

Corporations with taxable years ending after June 30, 1969, may compute their surcharge by multiplying lines 5(a) and 10(a) by the applicable rate in the following table:

TAXABLE YEAR		APPLICABLE RATE
Beginning in 1968	Ending in 1969
Aug. 1	July 31	.09150685
Sept. 1	Aug. 31	.08301370
Oct. 1	Sept. 30	.07479452
Nov. 1	Oct. 31	.06630137
Dec. 1	Nov. 30	.05808219

If the corporation prefers, the surcharge may be computed using the following formula:

$$\text{Amount on lines 5(a) and 10(a)} \times 10\% \times \frac{\text{No. days in taxable year before 7/1/69}}{\text{No. days in taxable year}}$$

Corporations which have a 52–53 week taxable year which ends after June 30, 1969, must use the formula to compute their surcharge.

2. Surtax exemption.—The surtax exemption is $25,000 except for certain controlled corporations to which section 1561 applies.

Section 1561 provides that if a corporation is a component member of a controlled group of corporations (as defined in section 1563) on December 31 of its taxable year, the surtax exemption shall be—

(a) $25,000 divided by the number of component members on such December 31, or

(b) If all members consent to an apportionment plan, their portion of $25,000 determined in accordance with the plan. The sum of amounts so apportioned may not exceed $25,000. See section 1561 and the regulations thereunder for time and manner of making the consent.

If the surtax exemption is determined under (a) or (b) above, the additional 6-percent tax under section 1562 does not apply.

3. Election of multiple surtax exemptions by a controlled group of corporations.—Subject to the provisions of section 1562, a controlled group of corporations may elect, with respect to a specified December 31, to have each of its component members claim a separate $25,000 surtax exemption without having to divide equally or apportion one $25,000 surtax exemption among all component members.

If the group elects to claim multiple surtax exemptions, each component member must pay an additional tax of 6 percent on its first $25,000 taxable income. If only one member of the group has any taxable income, the 6-percent tax does not apply. (Section 1562(b)(1)(A).)

4. Mutual savings banks conducting life insurance business.—The tax under section 594 consists of the sum of (1) a partial tax computed on Form 1120 on the taxable income of the bank determined without regard to income or deductions allocable to the life insurance department; and (2) a partial tax on the taxable income computed on Form 1120–L of the life insurance department. Enter the combined tax on line 5(a) of the Form 1120 tax computation schedule. Attach Form 1120–L as a schedule and identify as such.

5. Tax from recomputing a prior year investment credit.—If property is disposed of prior to the life used in computing the investment credit, the tax for the year of disposition must be increased by the difference between the credit taken (including carrybacks and carryovers) on such property and the credit which would have been allowed had the actual life been used. (Section 47.) The tax from recomputing a prior year investment credit may not be offset against the current year's investment credit.

Tax Guide for Small Business (Publication 334) contains answers to most questions which arise if you start, operate, or dispose of a business. Explanations and examples are provided to illustrate the application of Federal income, excise, social security, and withholding taxes to sole proprietorships, partnerships, and corporations. This booklet may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, or from your District Director, for 60 cents.

Codes for Principal Business Activity and Principal Product or Service

These industry titles and definitions are based on the Standard Enterprise Classification system developed by the Bureau of the Budget, Executive Office of the President, to classify enterprises by type of activity in which engaged. The system follows closely the Standard Industrial Classification used to classify establishments.

Using the list below, enter on page 1, under D, the code for the specific industry group from which the largest percentage of "total receipts" is derived. "Total receipts" means gross receipts (line 1, page 1) plus all other income (lines 4 through 10, page 1). On page 3, under M, state the principal business activity and principal product or service which account for the largest percentage of total receipts. For example, if the principal business activity is "Grain mill products," the principal product or service may be "Cereal preparations."

FINAL RETURNS.—If the corporation ceases to exist, write "FINAL RETURN" at the top of the form.

G. Depositary method of tax payment.—The balance of tax due (line 33) must be paid in full when the return is filed or in two installments, 50% by the 15th day of the 3d month and 50% by the 15th day of the 6th month after the end of the taxable year.

Corporations must deposit all income tax payments with an authorized commercial bank depositary or Federal Reserve bank. All deposits must be accompanied by a Federal Tax Deposit Form 503. Please enter the serial number of Form 503 on your remittance. Do not remit directly to Internal Revenue.

In Schedule K, list all Form 503 deposits that relate to the taxable year for which this return is filed and which were made before or simultaneously with the filing of this return.

Timeliness of deposits will be determined by the date the deposit was received by the commercial bank depositary or Federal Reserve bank.

Forms 503 will be mailed to corporations on a cyclical basis depending on the taxable year of the corporation. Corporations needing Forms 503 may obtain them from the Internal Revenue Service Center where they will file their returns. The application should include the corporation's name, identification number, address, and the taxable year to which the deposits relate.

Penalty for failure to pay tax.—Section 6651 imposes a penalty for failure to pay tax (other than estimated income tax) when due. The penalty is ½% a month or fraction of a month, up to 25%, on the net amount due and is in addition to the 6% a year interest charge imposed on unpaid tax. The penalty does not apply if the failure is due to reasonable cause.

Taxpayers requesting an automatic extension may be liable for the penalty for failure to pay tax if they underestimate their tax on Form 7004. See Form 7004 for additional information.

H. Change in accounting period.—To change your accounting period, see section 1.442–1 of the regulations and Form 1128, Application for Change in Accounting Period.

I. Accounting methods. — Taxable income must be computed using the method of accounting regularly used in keeping the corporation's books and records. In all cases the method adopted must clearly reflect taxable income. (See section 446.)

Unless the law specifically permits, you may not change the method of accounting used to report income in prior years (for income as a whole or for any material item) without first obtaining consent on Form 3115, Application for Change in Accounting Method.

Rounding off to whole-dollar amounts.—The money items on your return and accompanying schedules may be shown as whole-dollar amounts by eliminating any amount less than 50 cents and increasing any amount from 50 cents through 99 cents to the next higher dollar.

J. Estimated tax.—A corporation must make estimated tax payments if its estimated tax (income tax less credits less an estimated tax exemption) can be expected to be $40 or more.

For taxable years beginning in 1973, the estimated tax exemption is 80% of the lesser of (1) 22% of the corporation's surtax exemption or (2) total tax less credits. The 80% estimated tax exemption is reduced 20 percentage points each year and becomes zero in 1977.

A corporation must make estimated tax payments for taxable years beginning in 1973 if it can expect its total tax liability before the 80% estimated tax exemption to be $200 or more.

Form 1120–W may be used as a worksheet to compute your estimated tax.

If you underpaid your estimated tax and believe a penalty charge should not be asserted, attach Form 2220 to your return.

If you overpaid your estimated tax you may apply on Form 4466 for a "quick refund" if the overpayment is (1) at least 10% of your expected income tax liability AND (2) at least $500.

This application for a quick refund must be made within 2½ months after the end of the taxable year and before you file your tax return.

K. Consolidated returns.—The parent corporation must attach Form 851, Affiliations Schedule, to the consolidated return. For the first year a consolidated return is filed, each subsidiary must attach a Form 1122.

Supporting schedules must be filed for each corporation included in the consolidated return. The schedules must be in columnar form and show, both before and after adjustments, the items of gross income and deductions, a computation of taxable income, balance sheets as of the beginning and end of the taxable year, and a reconciliation of retained earnings. In addition, attach consolidated balance sheets and a reconciliation of consolidated retained earnings.

L. Stock ownership in foreign corporations.—If you owned 5% or more in value of the outstanding stock of a foreign personal holding company, attach the statement required by section 551(d).

If you control a foreign corporation or were a 10% or more shareholder of a controlled foreign corporation, you may be required to file Forms 2952 and 3646.

M. Financial statements.—The balance sheets must agree with your books and records. Any differences must be reconciled. Copies of balance sheets required by Federal, State, etc., authorities may be used in place of Schedule L. Certificates of deposit should be included as cash on line 1 of the balance sheet.

Banks, insurance companies, and other corporations required to submit substantially similar statements of income and expense to any Federal, State, etc., authority may submit copies of such statements in place of the information required on lines 1 through 30, page 1. Railroads may substitute Form 1090. In such cases, taxable income must be reconciled in Schedule M–1 with the net profit shown on the statement and entered as line 30, page 1.

N. Attachments.—You may use attachments if the lines on the form schedules are not sufficient. They must contain all the required information and follow the format of the schedules on the return. If an attachment is used in place of a schedule having a summary line on page 1, the total need not be entered on the schedule but must be entered on page 1.

Enter your name and identifying number on all attachments exactly as shown on your preaddressed label.

O. Amended return.—An error in a previously filed income tax return may be corrected by filing a Form 1120X, Form 843, or an amended Form 1120. Although the use of Form 1120X is not mandatory, IRS prefers it be used since it is designed to expedite processing.

P. Transfers to corporation controlled by transferor.—If a person acquires stock or securities of a corporation in exchange for property, and no gain or loss is recognized under section 351, the transferor and transferee must file with their return for the taxable year in which the exchange is completed, the information required by section 1.351–3 of the regulations.

Q. Signature.—The return must be signed by the president, vice president, treasurer, assistant treasurer, chief accounting officer, or by any other corporate officer (such as tax officer) who is authorized to sign.

A receiver, trustee, or assignee must sign any return that he is required to file on behalf of a corporation.

R. Total assets.—If there are no assets at the end of the taxable year, show the total assets as of the beginning of the taxable year.

S. Corporations that liquidate within one calendar month pursuant to section 333.—Such corporations should attach a computation (following the format in Revenue Procedure 65–10, C.B. 1965–1, 738, as modified by Revenue Procedure 67–12, C.B. 1967–1, 589) of accumulated earnings and profits including all items of income and expense accrued up to the date on which the transfer of all property is completed.

Specific Instructions

Gross Income

1. Gross receipts.—Enter gross receipts or sales from all business operations except those required to be reported in lines 4 through 10. For reporting advance payments and long-term contracts, see section 1.451–5 of the regulations.

If you use the installment method of reporting, enter on line 1 the gross profit on collections from installment sales and carry the same amount to line 3. Attach a schedule showing for the current and 3 preceding years: (a) gross sales, (b) cost of goods sold, (c) gross profits, (d) percentage of gross profits to gross sales, (e) amount collected, and (f) gross profit on amount collected.

2. Cost of goods sold.—The method of valuing inventories may not be changed without permission. Application for permission to change must be made on Form 3115.

Cost of operations (where inventories are not an income-determining factor).—If the amount entered on line 2 includes an amount applicable to cost of operations, attach a schedule showing (1) salaries and wages and (2) other costs in detail.

4. Dividends.—(Numbered to correspond with line numbers in Schedule C.)

[1.] Enter dividends received from domestic corporations subject to income tax and which are subject to the 85% deduction under section 243(a)(1). Include on this line dividends from a DISC or former DISC that are designated as being eligible for the 85% deduction. These are distributions which are made out of other earnings and profits.

Small business investment companies enter dividends received from domestic corporations subject to income tax even though a deduction is allowed for the entire amount of such dividends in line 1 of Schedule I. For dividends received from a regulated investment company, see section 854 for the amount subject to the 85% deduction.

So-called dividends or earnings received from mutual savings banks, etc., are really interest and should not be treated as dividends.

[2.] Enter dividends received on the preferred stock of a public utility that is subject to income tax and is allowed the deduction provided in section 247 for dividends paid.

[3.] Enter dividends received from foreign corporations and which qualify for the 85% deduction provided in section 245(a).

[4.] Enter dividends received from wholly-owned foreign subsidiaries and which are eligible for the 100% deduction provided in section 245(b).

In general, this deduction applies to dividends paid out of the earnings and profits of a foreign corporation for a taxable year during which (1) all of its outstanding stock is owned (directly or indirectly) by the domestic corporation receiving the dividends and (2) all of its gross income from all sources is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States.

This 100% deduction does not apply if an election under section 1562 (election of multiple surtax exemptions by a controlled group of corporations) is effective for either (1) the taxable year of the domestic corporation in which the dividends are received, or (2) the taxable year of the foreign corporation out of the earnings and profits of which the dividends are paid.

[5.] Enter foreign dividends (including minimum distributions under subpart F) that are not reportable on lines 3 and 4. Exclude distributions of amounts constructively taxed in the current year or in prior years under subpart F.

[6.] Include income constructively received from controlled foreign corporations under subpart F. This amount should equal the total of amounts reported in Schedule A, line 5 of Form(s) 3646.

[7.] Include gross-up for taxes deemed paid under sections 902 and 960.

[8.] Enter only those dividends that are subject to the elective provisions of section 243(b) and are entitled to the 100% dividends–received deduction under section 243(a)(3). Corporations making this election are subject to the provisions of section 1561.

[9.] Enter only those dividends that are subject to the elective provisions of section 243(b) and are entitled to the dividends–received deduction as computed under the provisions of section 1564(b). Corporations making this election are subject to the provisions of section 1562 as modified by section 1564.

[10.] Enter dividends from a DISC or former DISC that are designated as not being eligible for the 85% deduction. These are distributions out of accumulated DISC income, previously taxed income, and deemed distributions pursuant to section 995(b)(1).

[11.] Include dividends (other than capital gain dividends) received from regulated investment companies and which are not subject to the 85% deduction; dividends from tax-exempt organizations; dividends (other than capital gain dividends) received from a real estate investment trust which, for the taxable year of the trust in which the dividends are paid, qualifies under sections 856–858; dividends not eligible for a dividends–received deduction because of the holding period of the stock or an obligation to make corresponding payments with respect to similar stock; and any other taxable dividend income not properly reported above.

6. Other interest.—Enter interest on loans, notes, mortgages, bonds, bank deposits, corporate bonds, tax refunds, etc.

Do not offset interest income against interest expense.

7. Gross rents.—Enter the gross amount received for the rent of property. Deduct expenses such as repairs, interest, taxes, and depreciation in the proper lines for deductions.

9(a). Net capital gains.—Every sale or exchange of a capital asset must be reported in detail in Schedule D even though no gain or loss is indicated.

If the net long-term capital gain exceeds the net short-term capital loss, or in case of only a net long-term capital gain, compute the alternative tax on separate Schedule D to see if it produces a lesser tax.

9(b). Ordinary gain or loss.—Enter the total ordinary gain or loss from line 9, Part II, Form 4797.

10. Other income.—The attached schedule should include recoveries of bad debts deducted in prior years under the specific charge-off method. Refunds of taxes deducted in prior years should be reported here and not offset against current year's taxes.

If "other income" consists of only one item, you may identify it by showing the account caption in parentheses on line 10.

Deductions

Note: That portion of wage, salary, rent and price payments in excess of the amount permitted under Executive Order 11640, issued pursuant to the authority of the Economic Stabilization Act of 1970, as amended, is not deductible as a business expense under section 162(c)(2). (Revenue Ruling 72–236)

12. Compensation of officers.—Complete column 8 of Schedule E for your 25 highest paid officers. To determine the highest paid officers, add all allowances, including expense account allowances, to each officer's compensation. Expense account allowance means (1) amounts, other than compensation, received as advances or reimbursements and (2) amounts paid by or for the corporation for expenses incurred by or on behalf of an officer. Column 8 does not have to be completed for any officer for whom the combined amount is less than $30,000.

This information is to be submitted by each member of an affiliated group included in a consolidated return.

For this purpose an officer is a person such as regular officer, chairman of the board, etc., who is elected or appointed to office or who is designated as such in the corporation's charter or bylaws.

14. Repairs.—Enter the cost of incidental repairs, including labor, supplies, and other items, that do not add to the value or appreciably prolong the life of the property. Include in this line the total amount of repairs from Forms 4832 and 5006.

15. Bad debts.—Bad debts may be treated in either of two ways—(1) as a deduction for debts that become worthless in whole or in part, or (2) as a deduction for a reasonable addition to a reserve for bad debts. (Section 166.)

Application to change the method of computing bad debts must be made on Form 3115.

17. Taxes.—Enter taxes paid or accrued during the taxable year and attach a schedule showing the type and amount of tax.

Do not include Federal income taxes; estate, inheritance, legacy, succession, or gift taxes; foreign or United States possession income taxes if a foreign tax credit is claimed; Federal taxes paid on bonds containing a tax-free covenant, or taxes not imposed upon the taxpayer. See section 164(d) for apportionment of taxes on real property between seller and purchaser.

18. Interest.—Enter business interest but do not include interest on indebtedness incurred or continued to purchase or carry obligations on which the interest is wholly exempt from income tax. (Section 265.)

Mutual savings banks, building and loan associations, and cooperative banks, enter amounts paid or credited to the accounts of depositors as dividends, interest, or earnings.

See section 267 for limitation on deductions for unpaid expenses and interest in transactions between related taxpayers.

19. Contributions.—Enter contributions or gifts actually paid within the taxable year to or for the use of charitable and governmental organizations described in section 170(c).

The amount claimed may not exceed 5% of taxable income computed without regard to (1) this deduction, (2) the "special deductions" in line 29(b), (3) any net operating loss carryback to the taxable year under section 172, and (4) any capital loss carryback to the taxable year under section 1212(a)(1).

Charitable contributions in excess of the 5% limitation may not be deducted for the taxable year but may be carried over to the next 5 taxable years.

Corporations on the accrual basis may elect to deduct contributions paid on or before the 15th day of the 3d month after the end of the taxable year if the contributions are authorized by the board of directors during the taxable year. A declaration, signed by an officer, must be attached to the return stating that the resolution authorizing the contributions was adopted by the board of directors.

Attach a schedule showing the name of each organization and the amount paid. If a contribution is made in property other than money, state the kind of property contributed and the method used in determining its fair market value. If a contribution carryover is included, show the amount and how it was determined.

Special rule for contributions of certain property.—If you make a charitable contribution of property, the contribution must be reduced by the sum of

(1) the ordinary income and

(2) in the case of certain contributions, 62½% of the long-term capital gain, that would have resulted if the property were sold at its fair market value. The reduction for 62½% of the long-term capital gain applies to (1) contributions of tangible personal property for use by an exempt organization for a purpose or function unrelated to the basis for its exemption, and (2) contributions of any property to or for the use of certain private foundations. (Section 170(e).)

Bargain sale to a charitable organization.—If you take a charitable contribution deduction for property sold to a charitable organization, the adjusted basis for determining gain from the sale is an amount which is in the same ratio to the adjusted basis as the amount realized is to the fair market value of the property.

20. Amortization.—If you claim a deduction for amortization, attach a schedule showing: (1) a description of the expenditures being amortized; (2) date acquired, completed, or expended; (3) amount being amortized; (4) amortization deducted in prior years; (5) amortization period (number of months); (6) amortization for this year; and (7) the total amount of amortization less the amount claimed in Schedule A and elsewhere on the return.

See section 169 and regulations thereunder for conditions under which the cost of certified pollution control facilities may be amortized over 60 months.

Also see section 188 for conditions under which certain expenditures for on-the-job training and child care facilities may be amortized over 60 months.

21. Depreciation.—See instructions for Schedule G.

22. Depletion.—The percentage depletion rate for oil and gas wells is 22%. See section 613(b) for rates applicable to other natural deposits.

Attach Form T if a deduction is claimed for depletion of timber.

24. Pension, profit-sharing, etc. plans.—You are required to file Form 4848 with a Schedule A (Form 4848) and Form 4849 if you have adopted a pension, profit-sharing, or other funded deferred compensation plan. These forms are, in general, to be filed on or before the 15th day of the 5th month following the close of your taxable year.

25. Employee benefit programs.—Enter the amount of your contributions to employee benefit programs that are not an incidental part of a pension, profit-sharing, etc., plan included on line 24. Contributions to employee benefit programs that are to be reported on this line include insurance, health and welfare programs.

26. Other deductions.—No deduction is allowable for any amount allocable to a class of exempt income other than exempt interest income. Items directly attributable to wholly exempt income must be allocated to such income, and items directly attributable to any class of taxable income must be allocated to such taxable income.

If an item is indirectly attributable both to taxable income and exempt income, a reasonable proportion of the item, determined in the light of all the facts and circumstances in each case, must be allocated to each.

Attach a statement showing (1) the amount of each class of exempt income and (2) the amount of expense items allocated to each such class. Show the amount allocated by apportionment separately.

29(a). Net operating loss deduction.—The "net operating loss deduction" is the sum of the net operating loss carryovers and carrybacks to the taxable year. (Section 172(a).)

Generally, a net operating loss may be carried back 3 years and carried over 5 years. The net operating loss must first be carried to the earliest of the 8 taxable years to which it may be carried, then to the next earliest year, etc. The portion of the loss that may be carried to each of the other 7 taxable years is the excess, if any, of the loss over the sum of the taxable income for each of the prior taxable years to which the loss may be carried. (Section 172 (b).)

The term "net operating loss" means the excess of allowable deductions over gross income, computed with the following modifications under section 172(d):

(1) No net operating loss deduction is allowed.

(2) The special deduction provided in section 922 (Western Hemisphere trade corporations) is not allowed.

(3) The special deductions in line 1 of Schedule I are computed without regard to the 85% limitation provided in section 246(b). See section 1.172–2 of the regulations.

(4) The special deduction allowed by section 247 (dividends paid on certain preferred stock of public utilities) is computed without regard to section 247(a)(1)(B).

As stated, the net operating loss deduction is the sum of the carryovers and carrybacks. However, the following modifications must be taken into account in determining the taxable income that must be subtracted from a net operating loss to determine the portion of such loss that will still be available to carry to a later year:

(a) The special deduction provided in section 922 (Western Hemisphere trade corporations) is not allowed.

(b) The net operating loss deduction is determined without regard to the net operating loss for the loss year or any taxable year thereafter, and under certain circumstances, without regard to any portion of a net operating loss attributable to a foreign expropriation loss.

If you have a net operating loss carryback and desire a "quick refund" of taxes, file Form 1139 within 12 months after the close of the taxable year in which the net operating loss occurred. (Section 6411.)

If a net operating loss carryback creates an unused investment credit in a preceding year, the unused credit may be carried back to the 3 preceding years, and, under the provisions of section 6411, a quick refund of the taxes affected may be obtained by filing Form 1139.

29(b). Special deductions.—See instructions for Schedule I.

Schedule G—Depreciation

Complete Schedule G if you claim a deduction for depreciation of property, leasehold improvements, patents, or copyrights. Form 4562, Depreciation, may be used as a supplement to Schedule G.

Class Life (ADR) System and Guideline Class Life System.—If depreciation is figured by using the Class Life (ADR) System for assets placed in service after December 31, 1970, or the Guideline Class Life System for assets placed in service before January 1, 1971, you must file Form 4832 (Class Life (ADR) System) or Form 5006 (Guideline Life Class System) with your income tax return. Except as otherwise expressly provided in income tax regulations sections 1.167(a)–11(b)(5)(vi) and 1.167(a)–12, the provisions of Revenue Procedures 62–21 and 65–13 are not applicable for taxable years ending after December 31, 1970. For more information, see instructions for Form 4832 and Form 5006 and Publication 534.

Salvage value.—Salvage value must be taken into account in determining the depreciation deduction except under the declining balance method, Class Life (ADR) System, or Guideline Class Life System. For personal property (other than livestock) with a useful life for 3 years or more, salvage value may be reduced by an amount not in excess of 10% of the cost or other basis of the property. In no event may property be depreciated below a reasonable salvage value after making the salvage value reduction.

Tangible property other than real property.—Tangible personal property, whether new or used, may be depreciated under the straight line method or the 150% declining balance method.

New tangible personal property with a useful life of 3 years or more may also be depreciated under (1) the double declining balance method, (2) the sum of the years-digits method, and (3) any other method that does not result in accumulated allowances at the end of any year (during the first two-thirds useful life of the property) greater than the total that could have been deducted if the double declining balance method had been used.

New section 1250 property.—The double declining balance and sum of the years-digits methods may be used only for (1) new residential rental property (from which at least 80% of the gross rental income is derived from rental of residential units), (2) other new real property acquired before July 25, 1969, and (3) new real property placed in service after July 24, 1969, if construction, acquisition, or permanent financing arrangements were entered into before July 25, 1969. Other new real property acquired after July 24, 1969, may be depreciated under the straight line or 150% declining balance methods.

Used section 1250 property.—Used residential rental property acquired after July 24, 1969, with a useful life of 20 years or more may be depreciated under the 125% declining balance method. In the case of used real property acquired before July 25, 1969, or used real property acquired after July 24, 1969, pursuant to a written contract entered into before July 25, 1969, for the acquisition of such property or for the permanent financing thereof, depreciation is limited to the 150% declining balance method. Other used real property acquired after July 24, 1969, may be depreciated under the straight line method.

Rehabilitation expenditures for low-income rental housing.—You may elect to depreciate property attributable to rehabilitation expenditures for low-income rental housing incurred after July 24, 1969. Such depreciation may be claimed under the straight line method using a useful life of 60 months. For details, see section 167(k).

Section 179—Additional first-year depreciation allowance.—For the first year a depreciation deduction is allowable, corporations may elect to write off 20% of the cost (before adjustment for salvage value) of tangible personal property (whether new or used) with a useful life of 6 years or more, up to an aggregate cost of $10,000.

Controlled corporate groups must apportion this $10,000 amount among members of the group. For this purpose, section 179(d)(7) provides a special definition of controlled groups.

Show total additional first-year depreciation on line 1 of the depreciation schedule.

If the additional first-year allowance is elected, the basis of the property must be reduced by the amount of the deduction when computing ordinary depreciation.

Schedule I—Special Deductions

(Numbered to correspond with line numbers in Schedule I.)

1. A small business investment company operating under the Small Business Investment Act of 1958 may deduct 100% of dividends received from domestic corporations subject to income tax. (Section 243(a)(2).)

No deduction shall be allowed under section 243 in respect of a dividend from a corporation which is a DISC or former DISC (as defined in section 992 (a)) to the extent such dividend is paid out of the corporation's accumulated DISC income or previously taxed income, or is a deemed distribution pursuant to section 995(b)(1).

In general, no dividends-received deduction will be allowed on any share of stock (a) that is disposed of before the corporation has held it at least 15 days, or (b) to the extent the corporation is under an obligation to make corresponding payments with respect to substantially identical stock or securities.

2. Limitation on dividends-received deduction.—Line 2 may not exceed 85% of (line 28, page 1, less the sum of lines 3, 4, and 6 of Schedule I). For this purpose, line 28, page 1, is to be computed without regard to any capital loss carryback to the taxable year under section 1212(a)(1).

In a year in which a net operating loss occurs, sections 172(d) and 246(b) provide that this 85% limitation does not apply even if the loss is created by the dividends-received deduction.

In the case of a small business investment company, the dividends-received deduction of 100% included in line 2 is not subject to the overall 85% limitation.

Financial institutions, see section 596 for special limitation on dividends-received deduction.

5. Deduction for dividends paid on certain preferred stock of public utilities.—Section 247 allows public utilities a deduction of 29.167% of the lesser of (1) dividends paid on their preferred stock during the taxable year, or (2) taxable income computed without regard to this deduction. In a year in which a net operating loss occurs, section 172(d) provides that the deduction is to be computed without regard to section 247(a)(1)(B).

6. Deduction for Western Hemisphere trade corporations.—Section 922 allows Western Hemisphere trade corporations a deduction of 29.167% of taxable income computed without regard to this deduction.

However, no deduction is allowed to a corporation for a taxable year for which it is a DISC or in which it owns at any time stock in a DISC or former DISC as defined in section 992(a).

Schedule J—Tax Computation

1. Surtax exemption.—In general, corporations are entitled to a $25,000 surtax exemption. Certain controlled corporations, however, are limited to a smaller amount under the provisions of sections 1561, 1562 and 1564. (See section 1563 for definition of controlled group.)

Under the provisions of section 1561, a controlled group of corporations, with respect to a specified December 31, must divide one $25,000 surtax exemption equally among all component members of the group unless the group specifically consents to split up the $25,000 amount among all component members in accordance with an apportionment plan. See section 1561 and the regulations thereunder for the time and manner of making the consent.

For taxable years beginning in 1972, only one member of a group that has made an election under section 1562 may claim a full $25,000 surtax exemption with the others being limited to $12,500. (This $12,500 is further reduced in years 1973 and 1974 and becomes zero in 1975.) Section 1564(a)(2) provides that the component members of the controlled group must elect which member is to receive the full $25,000 and which members are to be limited to $12,500. See regulations section 1.1564–1(b) for the manner of making the election.

If the group elects to have each component member claim a separate surtax exemption under section 1562, each component member must pay an additional tax of 6% of the amount of income equal to its surtax exemption. If only one member of the group has any taxable income, the 6% tax does not apply. (Section 1562(b)(1)(A)).

2. Mutual savings banks conducting life insurance business.—The tax under section 594 consists of the sum of (1) a partial tax computed on Form 1120 on the taxable income of the bank determined without regard to income or deductions allocable to the life insurance department; and (2) a partial tax on the taxable income computed on Form 1120L of the life insurance department. Enter the combined tax on line 5 of Schedule J, Form 1120. Attach Form 1120L as a schedule and identify as such.

3. Credit for wages paid or incurred in Work Incentive (WIN) Programs.—Effective for tax years beginning after 1971, employers may claim a credit of 20% of the salaries and wages paid or incurred to employees hired under a Work Incentive (WIN) Program. The credit is allowed for the salaries and wages paid or incurred for the first 12 months of employment. For special rules and limitations, see Form 4874 and sections 50A and 50B.

4. Tax from recomputing a prior year investment credit.—If property is disposed of prior to the life-years category used in computing the investment credit, the investment credit must be recomputed using as the useful life the period the property was actually held. In recomputing the credit, use the life years categories of 0–3 years; 3–5; 5–7; and 7 or more. If the credit taken (including carrybacks and carryovers) exceeds the recomputed credit, the tax for the year of disposition must be increased by the excess. Form 4255 may be used to compute the tax.

The tax from recomputing a prior year investment credit may not be offset against the current year's investment credit.

5. Minimum tax on tax preference items.—Corporations having tax preference items must attach Form 4626, Computation of Minimum Tax, to their return whether or not the minimum tax applies.

Under the provisions of section 56, certain items of tax preference are subject to a minimum income tax. These tax preference items, after deducting a $30,000 exemption, the amount of taxes imposed for the year, and tax carryovers to the taxable year, are taxed at a 10% rate.

Items of tax preference include: (1) Accelerated depreciation on real property, (2) Accelerated depreciation on personal property subject to a net lease,* (3) Amortization of pollution control facilities, (4) Amortization of railroad rolling stock, (5) Amortization of on-the-job training facilities, (6) Amortization of child care facilities, (7) Reserves for losses on bad debts of financial institutions, (8) Excess percentage depletion, and (9) Capital gains.

*Applies only to personal holding companies.

Codes for Principal Business Activity and Principal Product or Service

These industry titles and definitions are based on the Standard Enterprise Classification system developed by the Office of Management and Budget, Executive Office of the President, to classify enterprises by type of activity in which they are engaged. The system follows closely the Standard Industrial Classification used to classify establishments.

Using the list below, enter on page 1, under C, the code number for the specific industry group from which the largest percentage of "total receipts" is derived. "Total receipts" means gross receipts (line 1, page 1) plus all other income (lines 4 through 10, page 1). On page 3, under M, state the principal business activity and principal product or service that account for the largest percentage of total receipts. For example, if the principal business activity is "Grain mill products," the principal product or service may be "Cereal preparations."
